DEFENSE TAX ASKED BY F.D.

By GEORGE DURNO

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (INS)—President Roosevelt today asked Congress to levy a special "national defense" tax for Army-Navy increases and called upon the nation and all political units to present a solid front in combating ill-effects on the United States of Europe's war.

HITLER'S BRITISH GRL FRIEND HOME ON A STRETCHER

FOLKSTONE, Eng., Jan. 3—The "perfect Nordic beauty," Adolf Hitler's one-time "goddess," arrived here on a stretcher today after a boat trip across the English channel.

Suffering from a self-inflicted bullet wound in her neck, the girl, Unity Valkyrie Freeman-Mitford, who shot herself for love of Hitler, is reported in critical condition.

Sentries with fixed bayonets guarded her return to England. Lord Redesdale, her father, was waiting on the quayside with a car and ambulance when the channel steamer from Calais arrived.

MOTHER IS WITH HER

His daughter had been carried aboard the steamer on a stretcher at the French port. She was accompanied on her journey home by her mother, Lady Redesdale, and a sister, Deborah Vivien.

Miss Freeman-Mitford was reported to have been wounded strangely in Munich, Nov. 9. The Evening News of London asserted surgeons would operate to remove a revolver bullet from her neck.

Every precaution to keep unwelcome questioners away from the girl was taken by British officials co-operating with her father, who said:

ADMIRER OF HITLER

"I am not ashamed of anything my daughter has done in Germany. I know all she has done she has done because she believed it would encourage friendship between the two countries."

Since the mysterious happenings to Unity, British newspapers have variously reported her suffering from a gunshot wound, from poisoning, from a disease.

Today it was revealed that she had shot herself at a Munich tea-garden after telling friends:

"Adolf is through with me. He refuses to see me again because I would not take German nationality."

Unity became an ardent Hitler admirer five years ago when she was but 20. She was studying art at Munich and one night at a coffee shop Hitler asked her to join him at his table.

From that time on they were close friends and she frequently visited him at his mountain retreat, Berchtesgaden.

GOES INTO SECLUSION

She has been in Germany since before the war. Her leaving was arranged by Hitler through the aid of the American embassy. Hitler ordered a special train for her.

Preparations had been made here to rush the girl to some secret place where expert medical attention may be given her. It is known that even if she recovers she will be for some time in a serious mental condition.

Miss Freeman Mitford wrote to her brother in England two days before the outbreak for the war that her "ideals of Anglo-German friendship were shattered," it was learned today.

"There is nothing left for me to do," she wrote.

The girl said she planned to dodge further publicity and would go to the Tyrol to work as a hand girl for duration of the war."

Making the traditional address on "The State of the Union" in person to the convening Congress, President Roosevelt promised to continue America's efforts to bring about peace abroad and again asserted his conviction this nation would not become involved in foreign conflict.

But the President warned that no one could say Europe's war "is none of our business."

RAPS ISOLATIONISTS

"The social and economic forces which have been mismanaged abroad until they have resulted in revolution, dictatorship and war are the same as those which we here are struggling to adjust peacefully at home," he told an intent Chamber.

He ridiculed isolationists who would seek to sustain themselves within a high tariff wall as he made a strong plea for extension of the trade agreements act.

The Administration is seeking flexible application of reciprocal trade agreements by the Secretary of State without further recourse to Congress.

Looking across the sea, President Roosevelt painted a black picture of dictatorship and vicious aggression which had swept personal and religious liberties to the winds. He pleaded strongly for national unity at home to prevent those forces from getting a foothold on American shores.

TAX OR BORROW

More than half of the President's message was devoted to foreign affairs because, he explained, "the impact of wars abroad makes it natural to approach 'the state of the union,' through their discussion."

At the same time, he promised that his administration was "not abandoning, or even overlooking, the great significance of its domestic policies."

The "national defense tax" proposed by Mr. Roosevelt had been forecast. At Thanksgiving time in Warm Springs the Chief Executive said Congress would have to decide whether it would impose taxes or continue borrowing to meet an emergency national defense item of $500,000,000 he intended to propose.

EXPECTS NO U. S. WAR

This half-billion added to normal military expenditures, will bring next year's national defense budget to a new all-time peace

Quins Have War Cure—Tell Hitler of Ferdinand the Bull

CALLENDAR, Ont., Jan. 3 (AP)—Nobody seems to know just how, but the Dionne quintuplets have found out there is a war in Europe.

That gave Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, their physician, a job of explaining. He had kept the news from the five-year-old girls who have been taught it is "naughty to fight."

"I just told them there were some bad men across the sea who were hurting the poor people and wouldn't behave when asked to do so by the King," Dr. Dafeo explained today.

"They wanted to know why somebody hadn't told Hitler and the other bad men about Ferdinand (the bull) and how he would rather just sit and smell flowers than fight."

Finns Fight to Shut Trap on 16,000 Reds, Snow Halts Russians

HELSINKI, Jan. 3 (INS)—One of the most violent battles of the war broke out today on the Salla front, where two long columns of Finns are fighting to close in and cut off 16,000 Russians.

SHIP HIT BY U-BOAT, SINKING

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (INS)—A freighter sailing under the flag of neutral Sweden today reported herself the victim of a German submarine attack in mid-Atlantic and in immediate need of assistance.

Mackay Radio reported interception of this S O S from the disabled ship, the Kiruna of Stockholm, at 7:30 a. m.: "Position 42:50 north, 25:10 west. Have been fired at by U-boat. Sinking slowly. Require assistance."

The position given is 1600 miles east of Cape Breton and in a part of the Atlantic subject at this season to subzero gales which whip up mountainous seas. The Kiruna is a craft of 5484 tons and carries 60 men. She was built in Gothenburg in 1921.

Swedish Freighter Torpedoed, 20 Missing

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—The Swedish steamer Svartön, 2475-ton, was reported torpedoed today by a submarine off the northeast coast of Scotland and sunk in a minute and a half.

Twenty members of her crew were missing. Eleven survivors on a raft were rescued by a lifeboat.

Achilles, Ajax Dock for Fuel

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 3 (AP)—The British cruiser Achilles entered Buenos Aires harbor today for a 48-hour stay for adjustments necessary after being at sea for a long period.

The cruiser steamed into port shortly after the Ajax, flagship of the British South Atlantic squadron, docked at Montevideo for a similar stay for refueling and provisioning.

Thick snow, driven by a lashing gale, cut visibility to zero on the Karelian Isthmus and brought fighting there to a standstill.

Seven Russian airplanes, trying to raid the Finnish coastal cities, were shot down, the Finns said. Six were brought down by anti-aircraft fire and one in combat with Finnish craft.

REDS IN AIR THRUST

Nevertheless Red Army planes managed once more to attack the southwestern port of Aba, dropping several bombs. Damage was not known.

(An Associated Press dispatch from the Finnish front near Lake Kianta told of an army of Finnish lumberjacks on ski, pursuing the hungry, freezing remnants of a shattered Soviet army division into the wilderness of forests and snow near the central Finnish-Russian border. 18 Known Dead, 25 Injured In Minneapolis Hotel Fire BEATEN—Appearing at Suffolk Superior Court Charles Chater of Norwell is accompanied by his wife as he prepared to tell the story of how he was beaten, his jaw broken, after he refused to buy a certain type of merchandise. Jerry Caini of South End was accused by Chater as his assailant.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 3 (AP)—At least 18 and possibly 21 persons lost their lives today when an early morning fire ravaged the Marlborough apartment hotel.

Firemen, who fought the blaze in sub-zero weather, were still searching for bodies hours after the alarm was sounded.

Four of the victims were killed as they jumped from top windows in the three-story brick building. Others were trapped in blazing hallways, or dashed to death when the floors burned through and fell.

PUZZLE TO FIREMEN

The number of injured was tentatively set at upwards of 25.

No one knew how the fire started. Some residents said they were awakened shortly before 6 a. m. by the sound of an explosion, but its source was not immediately discovered.

Most of the occupants awoke to find the 85-apartment building already an inferno, smoke and flames blocking halls and stairways.

How the blaze spread so quickly through the 45-year-old structure puzzled firemen as they poked about through the wreckage in search of victims.

The building is in three sections, and firemen said the fire appeared to start simultaneously in all three. A caretaker said 100 to 125 persons lived in the building.

FIREMEN INJURED

Two firemen were injured, one suffering a possible broken back when he fell through the roof, the other suffering undetermined injuries.

One woman, hysterical from fright, was seriously injured when she writhed out of a fireman's grasp as he carried her down an ice-coated ladder from the third floor.

The intense cold seriously hampered firefighters. Hoses froze to the ground, ice glazed the apparatus, and water from the hoses froze almost as soon as it touched the building.

John Carlen, caretaker of an apartment house across the street, was one of the first to report the fire. He said one of the three main entrances was already a mass of flames when he noticed the fire, and all nine doors leading out of the triple building were choked with flames by the time firemen arrived.

Mrs. Eloise Huson, a resident, said she was awakened by what she thought was a "terrific explosion." She said she heard cries for help, and was met by a rush of flame and smoke when she opened her door.

She escaped by dropping in her

MATRIMONIAL SWIM—Ruth Jump, above, a swimming star of Uncle Sam's last Olympic team, became the bride of Ralph Flanagan, champ Olympic diver, in a wedding ceremony performed at Yuma, Ariz. The couple flew from Los Angeles to Yuma for the rite. Their romance dates from the time they competed together abroad.

HUNT 'BABY FACE' IN HOLDUP SLAYING

A "baby-face" killer-bandit, described as a pink-cheeked, blond man of 25, is wanted by Boston police for the murder of Vasco Pina, 38, crippled store keeper, slain during a series of six Greater Boston holdups.

Detectives said today there are "positive indications" the same man, reminiscent of the police search begun by the slaying, boldly held up a Roxbury diner early this morning, two hours after the Pina shooting.

Anonio Simmons, 27, counterpane of the diner in Dudley st. which was robbed of $6.50, said his assailant was extremely youthful in appearance, with fair hair and ruddy complexion. He carried a black automatic, Simmons declared.

The bullet which killed Pina in his South End shop at Albany and Rose sts. likewise was fired from an automatic of 32 caliber, according to Sergt. Edward Selboj, ballistics expert.

A blaring radio in Pina's store prevented anyone from hearing the shot which killed him. He was found, still alive, near the front of the shop by a customer, James Virga, 19.

"A young fellow—very light—came in and asked for cigarettes—shot me," the crippled victim gasped.

He died on the way to City Hospital. Dr. Martin O'Brien said the bullet passed through Pina's heart.

Inhalator Squads Save Boy's Life

While a grief-torn mother and father watched, a squad of Watertown police and firemen won a three-hour battle against death today, saving the life of George Mullen, 3, of Fuller rd., Watertown, who was gasping out his life in convulsions.

Working in relays the firemen and police under the direction of Dr. Robert F. York used an inhalator in their dogged fight to save the child's life.

INJURED IN FIRE

Lieut. Thomas Maloney, Fireman James Devaney and George White, and Patrolmen Lawrence Gleason and William Carnes formed the rescue squad. Dr. York had asked their aid when he was summoned to the Mullen home and found the boy unconscious.

Since last August the lad has been an invalid, slowly fighting to regain health after being critically burned in a camp fire at Billerica.

He has undergone a series of skin-grafting operations and had been showing improvement. Early today, however, his moans awakened his father, George Mullen, an inspector in the Registry of Motor Vehicles. The boy had lapsed into a coma before Dr. York hastened to his aid.

PLANS TRANSFUSION

The physician put in an immediate call for aid and a few minutes the rescue workers took up their task. Three hours later they had won their fight and the boy was once again battling for recovery.

Dr. York praised the efforts of the firemen and police and said the child would have died if they had not responded in time.

Shortly after the rescue squad had completed its work, Dr. York ordered the child taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Brighton for a blood transfusion.

The little boy's father issued a call for volunteers among his friends in the registry and police department.

ALIMONY 'REBEL' REPENTS IN JAIL

SALEM, Jan. 3—With tears streaming down his cheeks, 67-year-old, silver-haired Henry Portnoy, father of 14 children by two wives, today was in a penitent mood as he peered through the bars of his cell.

Portnoy, who again had accepted jail rather than pay his wife $223 back alimony, sobbed out after 12 hours of incarceration:

"I want to pay now. I made a mistake yesterday. But my wife makes me so mad I shiver like a fish and I didn't know what I was saying."

WANTS TO PAY $5 WEEK

The Lynn city laborer said he wanted Sheriff Frank A. Raymond to communicate his desire for freedom to Judge John V. Phelan, who sent the elderly husband to jail.

But Portnoy emphasized he "would not pay his wife back alimony," but rather would "start paying her $5 a week," as originally ordered after the couple were divorced.

LONGS FOR FREEDOM

Judge Phelan had given Portnoy an indefinite term for contempt of court. It was the fourth time in four years that he had been sent to jail for failure to make support payments.

Portnoy sobbed out his life story while waiting and hoping the cell doors would open for him again. He said his second wife was the sister of his first wife.

The first Mrs. Portnoy, whom he married in 1901, died after giving birth to her seventh child.

The second Mrs. Portnoy likewise bore him seven children.

Must Stay Single To Receive Estate

Provided that she remains unmarried, Miss Bessie Thomas, of Reddington st., Swampscott, will inherit the bulk of the estate of her mother, Mrs. Clara E. Thomas, of Swampscott, it was disclosed in Salem court today.

In the event of the marriage or death of her daughter, the will states, the trustees of the estate are to pay over the residue to the trustee of donations of the Protestant Episcopal Church, to establish a fund to be known as the Clara E. Thomas fund.

F. D., Jr., Wife Lose Stitches

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Stitches that had to come out of the injured heads of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his wife, the former Ethel duPont, interrupted the senior Mrs. Roosevelt's press conference today.

Disappearing briefly, the First Lady returned to explain that she had stood by while Franklin's stitches were taken out, but had to go right back because Ethel had another one to be removed.

'BARBIE' CARROLL SEEKS HAPPINESS IN HOME

HAPPY—Barbara Carroll LaCroix, daughter of sheriff serving life for murder, has settled in Rumford, Me., with her new mate.

ATTORNEY SEALS MRS. DOWD'S LIPS

Hope of authorities that Mrs. John F. Dowd might reveal the hiding place of her fugitive ex-sheriff husband was dashed today when her lips were sealed by her attorney.

"I am not going to allow even authorities to talk with her, despite the requests made by the district attorney's office," said Atty. Garrett J. Barry.

"Mrs. Dowd is in a very nervous state of mind and she must be kept quiet and alone for three or four days. Otherwise she might suffer a nervous collapse."

"As far as her husband, the ex-sheriff, is concerned, I am not interested. I was retained solely for the purpose of protecting her rights and am not allowing her to grant any interviews or answer questions that might be put to her by investigators."

Barry, with whom it was learned Dist. Atty. William J. Foley will seek a conference, was asked if it was true that Mrs. Dowd did not know her husband's whereabouts, as she has claimed.

"I can't say anything," the lawyer replied.

Asked if Dowd was far from Boston when his wife left him, Barry said:

"I can't say anything now; I might have something later."

Meanwhile, however, it was still believed by authorities that Dowd, sought since Nov. 20, would surrender soon—even that he already has entered into negotiations for the surrender.

He is ready to come in at once from a neighboring state as soon as bail and other arrangements are made, according to information.

These arrangements are almost completed and he will give himself up at the office of the district attorney, perhaps as soon as tomorrow or Friday.

Collapses at Car Wheel, Dies Later

NATICK, Jan. 3—Arthur Cawthorne, 54, a salesman, collapsed at the wheel of his car in Washington st., Sherborn, while bound for his home in West Central st., here today, and died soon after in Leonard Morse Hospital.

MOTHER'S JOY—Her face wreathed in smiles, Mrs. Joseph O. Edwards of Dean rd., Wellesley, carries her child, Judith, 2, wrapped in blankets, from home of Dr. Harrison Wheeler in Weston. Baby, missing for 11 hours, was found in snow half mile from home. Meanwhile, a posse of 200 police, firemen and Scouts sought her.

BABY LOST HOURS IN SNOW RECOVERS

Tiny Judith Edwards, two years and four months old, was kept in bed in her Deane st. home in Wellesley today, although she wanted to go out and play in the snow on her new sled.

Only a few hours before she had been the object of a wide search by policemen, firemen, Legionnaires, Boy Scouts, schoolgirls and two bloodhounds.

She had been lost for 11 hours in deep snow, with the mercury hovering between 10 and 20 degrees—an experience that might have killed an adult.

The search grew more frantic hourly, but at last, long after dark, she was found, exhausted, floundering in the snow in a ravine a half a mile from her home.

The searchers spread out fanwise and some went into woods in the rear of Oxbow rd., Wellesley, and Boulder rd., Weston.

Margaret Howe led because she had a flashlight and it was she who found the child.

Gardner Russell of Oxbow rd., Vernon Hill of Woodlawn ave., and Richard Ely of Chilton rd., son of the former governor, ran over when they heard the Howe girl's cry.

Hill picked up the baby and carried her 150 yards to the home of Dr. Wheeler. The girls, meanwhile spread the news, and when it reached Mrs. Edwards she and her husband rushed to the Wheeler home.

Those who witnessed it said they will long remember Judith's reunion with her mother, Mrs. Joseph O. Edwards, wife of a Boston tailor. But first the child had been thawed out, two physicians had administered to her, one giving her a drop or two of brandy, the other restoring circulation with vigorous massage.

Cold Wave Here Costs One Life

One death and numerous auto accidents marked the cold which chilled New England during the night and sent the mercury down to the 10-degree mark in many Greater Boston cities today.

In Lynn, Harry L. Ball, 50, of Philadelphia, crew member of a coal barge, died after an accidental plunge from a dock ladder into the frigid waters of Lynn harbor.

Another victim of the cold was John Young, 52, a Civil War veteran, found in the woods near his home in Swansea. He is reported in critical condition at Fall River Union Hospital from exposure and frostbite.

The worst of the Greater Boston auto mishaps occurred in Washington st., Roxbury, when a car driven by Chester Freiwald, 29, of Park rd., Jamaica Plain, skidded and crashed into a Boston Elevated upright.

His companion, Marie Hanbury, 24, of Linden st., Jamaica Plain, suffered severe internal injuries, including a fractured right leg. Her name was placed on the danger list at the New England Hospital for Women in Roxbury.

MURDERS MOTHER, BUT SUICIDE FAILS

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 3 (AP) — A brilliant young university graduate student strangled her mother last night in a hotel, brooded by the body for hours, and then vainly attempted suicide in a leap from a fourth-floor hotel window early today, Detective Inspector Walter Monaghan reported.

Monaghan said the young woman, Agnes West, 34, a Phi Beta Kappa student and graduate assistant librarian at West Virginia University, killed her mother, Mrs. Helen G. West, 58, to avoid a return to a state mental hospital in Huntington, W. Va. The inspector said Miss West had been charged with homicide.

The two, Monaghan said, had been visiting relatives in Ohio and were on their way to Huntington when they mixed connections here.

In Huntington, Dr. E. S. Reaser, psychiatrist at the hospital, said arrangements had been made to readmit Miss West as a voluntary patient today. She had been treated in 1938, he said, for a "depressed mental condition."

The mother, secretary of the West Virginia University health service, was strangled with her own scarf. Detectives Cyril Letzкус and James O'Kane said.

FIND BODY

The slaying was not discovered until shortly before 3 a. m., when police investigated the daughter's plunge from the hotel window to a tin roof over an arway. They found the mother's body, fully clothed, on the floor of the room.

Detectives Letzкус and O'Kane quoted the daughter as saying:

"I was selfish and unstable. I did not want mother to go through life alone and decided I would take her with me."

Miss West, a graduate of West Virginia University, was in a hospital suffering back and internal injuries.

U. S. JURY DELAYS DIGHTON INQUIRY

Without hearing further witnesses today, Asst. U. S. Atty. Henry M. Leen put over until 10 a. m. tomorrow the extraordinary session of the federal grand jury which is probing operations of the Dighton dog track.

In dismissing 10 witnesses until tomorrow, Leen announced that the first to go then before the grand jury would be Hugh C. Irely, special agent of the Treasury Department, who investigated the Dighton track.

Among witnesses called for today but put over until tomorrow were three former employees of Sportsman Park, Inc., one of the two organizations which conducted dog racing at Dighton.

WOMAN LEAVES CITY

This was the organization headed during the 1935-36 racing season by former City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan, who is now serving a sentence of two and a half years at Charles st. jail for contempt of court.

While no official reason was given for the postponement, it was learned that Antoinette (Toini) Cavaretti, former secretary to the slain Edward J. O'Hare of Chicago, had returned to that city and will not come back here until the latter part of the week.

It was learned also that U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon likewise has gone to Chicago, with a possibility that he will visit St. Louis and Washington before returning.

TRAIL HIGH SALARIES

Among other matters the federal agents have learned in the dog racing probe, it is understood, is that at least 26 persons were paid high salaries in the two organizations operating at the Dighton track during the five years of racing at Dighton.

They are now checking to see if income taxes were paid by the recipients of the high salaries. Also they seek to learn the original cost of the Dighton track, which is understood to have been in the vicinity of $300,000.

"REBECCA"—best seller novel by Daphne du Maurier, IN DAILY RECORD.

FIRST WITNESS—With session of the federal grand jury probing Dighton dog track operations closed for today, the first witness to be heard tomorrow will be Hugh C. Irely (above), Treasury agent.

DOG RACK TRACK ASK MILLION IN SUIT

The alleged expose of dog racing in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post—an article entitled "Massachusetts Goes to the Dogs"—was answered today with threat of a million-dollar suit by promoters of Wonderland Park.

The Old Harbor Kennel Club, Inc., and the Bay State Greyhound Ass'n, Inc., operators of the Revere track, announced they now were preparing and would soon file action against the Curtis Publishing Co.

Action came quickly by the dog interests—wrathful over the "exposing" article by Dan Parker, sports authority of the New York Daily Mirror. What stirred them most was the following statement:

"Wonderland Park also housed two associations. On opening night at Wonderland Park in June, 1935 the play was $50,000. Four years later the track opened with a $200,000 night."

"Profits were enormous the first year. Nevertheless, crooked racing was rampant. The tracks, with no tote boards to deter them in their sleight-of-hand work, retained more than their legal share of the handle."

"Boston, then considered hick territory in a racing sense, hadn't yet smartened up to the extent of knowing when it was being ripped more than the law allowed."

ISSUE STATEMENT

"Long delays followed some races, before the prices were posted, while the boys in the back room were making up their minds as to how much to give back."

Both Robert J. Bottomley and James F. Kavanaugh, attorneys for the Old Harbor Kennel Club, and Martin Hays, attorney for the Bay State Greyhound Association, protested the publication of the offending paragraph to the Saturday Evening Post, and in a letter to the press, declared:

"This article is permeated with false statements, which are clearly libelous. When you read this article, we wish to direct your attention to the fact that certain statements falsely charge the violation of law by representatives of the Old Harbor Kennel Club, Inc., and the Bay State Greyhound Association, Inc., which have operated dog racing meetings at Wonderland for the past five years, by representatives of the Massachusetts State Racing Commission, which have supervised every race which has been run at Wonderland, and by Mortimer M. Mahony, director of mutuels at Wonderland, whose organization has conducted the mutual department during every race which has been run at Wonderland, and by representatives of the American Toteboard Co., of which Charles A. Munn is president, whose equipment has been used at every race which has ever been run at Wonderland."

Despite the protests of the attorneys for the local dog track, the Curtis Publishing Co. apparently decided to stand back of the words as written by Parker.

And now the battle is on. James F. Kavanaugh, of counsel for the two dog-racing associations which conduct the running of the races at Wonderland, announced:

"We are preparing and will file a suit for $1,000,000 against the Curtis Publishing Co."

Charles A. Munn, president of the American Toteboard Co., issued the following statement in Palm Beach:

"The statement that Wonderland ever operated without a tote board is untrue. Wonderland has the machines and equipment of the company of which I am president under a contract which requires the use of this equipment in every race from the opening of the track until Dec. 31, 1940. This toteboard equipment has been used at Wonderland Park at every race during the five years that the track has been open. It is the same equipment which is in use at Suffolk, Narragansett, Rockingham, Santa Anita, Arlington and other leading horse tracks all over the United States. It is the same equipment which will be used this year at Saratoga, Belmont and other leading New York tracks under the pari-mutuel law in that state."

Mortimer Mahony, the mutuels

director at Wonderland, also issued a statement. It says:

"I have been mutual director at the greyhound racing plant at Wonderland ever since the track opened five years ago. No race has ever been run at Wonderland when the mutual department was not operated by my organization. When a writer in this week's Saturday Evening Post says that 'long delays followed some races, before the prices were posted, while the boys in the back room were making up their minds as to how much to give back,' that statement is a lie. Prices at Wonderland have always been posted immediately after a race has been declared official. My integrity and the integrity of my organization cannot be truthfully questioned. This attack is completely unwarranted."

ORIGIN OF SPOOT

The incendiary paragraph occurs deep in the innards of the story, after Parker has first proved, to his own satisfaction, that Eddie O'Hare, recently murdered in Chicago, was the head man of all dog racing in Massachusetts, and that O'Hare, in turn, was in a sense a front man for, and a partner with, Al Capone in dog track activities throughout the country.

He traces the sport back to its beginnings in this country, when a California bartender named Owen P. Smith invented the mechanical rabbit, opened a track in Emeryville in 1915, made a profit of half a million dollars on a 45-day meeting at Erlanger, Ky., and attracted the attention of Al Capone, who became so powerful that he soon dominated the International Greyhound Association which Smith had organized.

"This body," he writes, "now controls dog racing at the tracks at Dighton, Massachusetts, Miami Beach, Tampa and Jacksonville, Florida, and West Memphis, Arkansas, and also at New Orleans, where dog racing is conducted illegally."

Wonderland Park, in this portion of the article, is not included in the list of tracks controlled by Capone's personal International Greyhound Association.

Then he records how O'Hare, a lawyer turned bootlegger, met Mortimer Mahony, widow of the inventor of the mechanical rabbit, represented her in dealing with the Capone interests regarding the touchy subject of royalties on Swifty, came into contact with Scarface Al, and was taken into partnership by the gangster.

U. S. JURY DELAYS DIGHTON INQUIRY

Without hearing further witnesses today, Asst. U. S. Atty. Henry M. Leen put over until 10 a. m. tomorrow the extraordinary session of the federal grand jury which is probing operations of the Dighton dog track.

In dismissing 10 witnesses until tomorrow, Leen announced that the first to go then before the grand jury would be Hugh C. Irey, special agent of the Treasury Department, who investigated the Dighton track.

Among witnesses called for today but put over until tomorrow were three former employees of Sportsman Park, Inc., one of the two organizations which conducted dog racing at Dighton.

WOMAN LEAVES CITY
This was the organization headed during the 1935-36 racing season by former City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan, who is now serving a sentence of two and a half years at Charles st. jail for contempt of court.

While no official reason was given for the postponement, it was learned that Antoinette (Tony) Cavaretti, former secretary to the slain Edward J. O'Hare of Chicago, had returned to that city and will not come back here until the latter part of the week.

It was learned also that U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon likewise has gone to Chicago, with a possibility that he will visit St. Louis and Washington before returning.

TRAIL HIGH SALARIES

Among other matters the federal agents have learned in the dog racing probe, it is understood, is that at least 26 persons were paid high salaries in the two organizations operating at the Dighton track during the five years of racing at Dighton.

They are now checking to see if income taxes were paid by the recipients of the high salaries. Also they seek to learn the original cost of the Dighton track, which is understood to have been in the vicinity of $300,000.

"REBECCA"—best seller novel by Daphne du Maurier, IN DAILY RECORD.

FIRST WITNESS—With session of the federal grand jury probing Dighton dog track operations closed for today, the first witness to be heard tomorrow will be Hugh C. Irey (above), Treasury agent.

DOG TRACK TO ASK MILLION IN SUIT

The alleged expose of dog racing in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post—an article entitled "Massachusetts Goes to the Dogs"—was answered today with threat of a million-dollar suit by promoters of Wonderland Park.

The Old Harbor Kennel Club, Inc., and the Bay State Greyhound Ass'n, Inc., operators of the Revere track, announced they now were preparing and would soon file action against the Curtis Publishing Co.

Action came quickly by the dog interests—wrathful over the "exposing" article by Dan Parker, sports authority of the New York Daily Mirror. What stirred them most was the following statement:

"Wonderland Park also housed two associations. On opening night at Wonderland Park in June, 1933, the play was $50,000. Four years later the track opened with a $200,000 night.

"Profits were enormous the first year. Nevertheless, crooked racing was rampant. The tracks with no tote boards to deter them in their sleight-of-hand work, retained more than their legal share of the handle.

"Boston, then considered high territory in a racing sense, hadn't yet smartened up to the extent of knowing when it was being rocked more than the law allowed.

INSUE STATEMENT

"Long delays followed some races, before the prices were posted, while the boys in the back room were making up their minds as to how much to give back."

Both Robert J. Bottomley and James F. Kavanaugh, attorneys for the Old Harbor Kennel Club, and Martin Hays, attorney for the Bay State Greyhound Association, protested the publication of the offending paragraph to the Saturday Evening Post, and, in a letter to the press, declared:

"This article is permeated with false statements, which are clearly libelous. When you read this article, we wish to direct your attention to the fact that certain statements falsely charge the violation of law by representatives of the Old Harbor Kennel Club, Inc., and the Bay State Greyhound Association, Inc., which have operated dog racing meetings at Wonderland for the past five years, by representatives of the Massachusetts State Racing Commission which have supervised every race which has been run at Wonderland, and by Mortimer M. Mahony, director of mutuels at Wonderland, whose organization has conducted the mutual department during every race which has been run at Wonderland, and by representatives of the American Totalisator Co., of which Charles A. Munn is president, whose equipment has been used at every race which has ever been run at Wonderland."

Despite the protests of the attorneys for the local dog track, the Curtis Publishing Co. apparently decided to stand back of the words as written by Parker.

And now the battle is on. James P. Cavanaugh, of counsel for the two dog-racing associations which conduct the running of the races at Wonderland, announces:

"We are preparing and will file a suit for $1,000,000 against the Curtis Publishing Co."

Charles A. Munn, president of the American Totalisator Co., issued the following statement in Palm Beach:

"The statement that Wonderland ever operated without a tote board is untrue. Wonderland had the machines and equipment of the company of which I am president under a contract which requires the use of this equipment in every race from the opening of the track until Dec. 31, 1940. This totalisator equipment has been used at Wonderland Park at every race during the five years that the track has been open. It is the same equipment which is in use at Suffolk, Narragansett, Rockingham, Santa Anita, Arlington and other leading horse tracks all over the United States. It is the same equipment which will be used this year at Saratoga, Belmont and other leading New York tracks under the pari-mutuel law in that state."

Mortimer Mahony, the mutuels

director at Wonderland, also issued a statement. It says:

"I have been mutual director at the greyhound racing plant at Wonderland ever since the track opened five years ago. No race has ever been run at Wonderland when the mutual department was not operated by my organization. When a writer in this week's Saturday Evening Post says that 'long delays followed some races, before the prices were posted, while the boys in the back room were making up their minds as to how much to give back,' that statement is a lie. Prices at Wonderland have always been posted immediately after a race has been declared official. My integrity and the integrity of my organization cannot be truthfully questioned. This attack is completely unwarranted."

That was how McHenry Robinson, 80, late of Nixon st., Dorchester, left his money to Mrs. Catherine E. Trohon, his housekeeper of less than a year, it was charged in Superior Court today.

The charge was made before Judge Frederick J. Dillon by Atty. Edward Williamson, representing two of the late octogenarian's sisters, to whom he left $500 each out of an estate valued at about $23,000.

GOT BULK OF ESTATE

The bulk of the estate was left to Mrs. Trohon.

Robinson died last May 14. Mrs. Trohon herself died last July. Her estate was left to two sons, Wendell I. Trohon of Arlington and Frederick Trohon of Attleboro.

Mrs. Mary Wales Glover, of Newton and Mrs. E. Kate Burden, of Wickenburg, Ariz. are the sisters who are contesting Robinson's will charging undue influence on the part of Mrs. Trohon, and also that Robinson was of unsound mind.

Atty. Williamson asked that the question of unsound mind and undue influence be decided by a jury. Judge Dillon granted the request.

Williamson charged that Mrs. Trohon used to give her employer spirit "messages" from his late wife, Minnie, who died two years before him after they had spent 33 years together happily married.

OFTEN FELT LONESOME

"He was lonesome," said Williamson. "He wanted to know if his wife was in Heaven."

"Mrs. Trohon suspended a nail by a piece of string into a glass of water. Three taps of the nail meant the spirits answered 'no' and four taps meant a 'yes' answer."

He said that Mrs. Trohon even went so far as to tell Robinson that his dead wife wanted her picture taken from the living room wall. He charged that she kept him under the influence of liquor by giving him whiskey in fruit juices.

He read from a deposition by Mrs. Beryl F. Gardiner, of Broken Bow, Neb., a niece of the late Robinson, describing a visit she made to the Robinson home and a seance which Mrs. Trohon held.

TELLS OF SEANCE

"Mrs. Trohon, a woman relative of hers named Lou, Mr. Robinson and I sat around the dining room table," she said.

"Mrs. Trohon turned the lights low. She kept snapping her fingers, rolling her eyes and rubbing her arms. She kept saying, 'My how thick they are tonight. I have never seen them so thick before.' I asked her what she meant. She said, 'The spirits. The room is filled with them.' Her hair was standing on end as she rubbed her hands through it."

Williamson charged the housekeeper had taken Robinson to spirit seances in Cambridge and Boston and that he had heard his wife's voice on many occasions.

He charged also that on one occasion she told a neighbor that Robinson wanted to marry her. Previously he charged she had told Robinson that his dead wife Minnie wanted him to marry her. However, he contended, she told the neighbor:

"He wants me to marry him, but I'm not going to marry the old fool. I can get his money without that."

Seven times Robinson changed his will, it is alleged. The final draft left the bulk of his estate to Mrs. Trohon.

TEXT OF ROOSEVELT'S 'PEACE, TAX MESSAGE'

Renews His Pledge To Avert U. S. War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's annual message to Congress follows:

As the Congress reassembles, the impact of wars abroad makes it natural to approach "the state of the Union" through a discussion of foreign affairs.

But it is important that those who hear and read this message should in no way confuse that approach with any thought that our government is abandoning, or even overlooking, the great significance of its domestic policies.

The social and economic forces which have been mismanaged abroad until they have resulted in revolution, dictatorship and war are the same as those which we here are struggling to adjust peacefully at home.

WISDOM OF FATHERS

You are well aware that dictatorships—and the philosophy of force which justifies and accompanies dictatorships—have originated in almost every case in the necessity for drastic action to improve internal conditions where democratic action for one reason or another has failed to respond to modern needs and modern demands.

It was with far-sighted wisdom that the framers of the Constitution brought together in one magnificent phrase three great concepts—"common defense," "general welfare" and "domestic tranquility."

More than a century and a half later we still believe with them that our best defense is the promotion of our general welfare and domestic tranquility.

In previous messages to Congress I have repeatedly warned that, whether we like it or not, the daily lives of American citizens will, of necessity, feel the shock of events on other continents. This is no longer mere theory, for it has been definitely proved by the facts of yesterday and today.

EXPECTS NO U. S. WAR

To say that the domestic well-being of 130,000,000 Americans is deeply affected by the well-being of the population of other nations is only to recognize in world affairs the truth we all accept in home affairs.

If in any local unit—a city, county, state or region—standards of living are permitted to continue, the level of the civilization of the entire nation will be pulled downward.

The identical principle extends to the rest of a civilized world. But there are those who wishfully insist, in innocence or ignorance or both, that the United States of America as a self-contained unit can live happily and prosperously, its future secure, inside a high wall of isolation while, outside, the rest of civilization and the commerce and culture of mankind are shattered.

I can understand the feelings of those who warn the nation that they will never again consent to the sending of American youth to fight on the soil of Europe. But, as I remember, nobody has asked them to consent—for nobody expects such an undertaking.

CAN WORK FOR PEACE

The overwhelming majority of our fellow-citizens do not abandon in the slightest their hope and expectation that the United States will not become involved in military participation in the war.

I can also understand the wishfulness of those who over-simplify the whole situation by repeating that all we have to do is to mind our own business and keep the nation out of war. But there is a vast difference between keeping out of war and pretending that this war is none of our business.

We do not have to go to war with other nations, but at least we can strive with other nations to encourage the kind of peace that will lighten the troubles of the world, and by so doing help our own nation as well.

I ask that all of us everywhere think things through with the single aim of how best to serve the future of our own nation. I do not mean merely its future relationship with the outside world.

EVILS OF FORCE RULE

I mean its domestic future as well—the work, the security, the prosperity, the happiness, the life of all the boys and girls of the United States, as they are inevitably affected by such world relationships.

For it becomes clearer and clearer that the future world will be a shabby and dangerous place to live in—even for Americans to live in—if it is ruled by force in the hands of a few.

Already the crash-of-swiftly moving events over the earth has made us all think with a longer view. Fortunately, that thinking cannot be controlled by partisanship. The time is long past when any political party or any particular group can carry and capture public favor by labeling itself the "peace party" or the "peace bloc." That label belongs to the whole United States and to every right thinking man, woman and child who lives it.

For out of all the military and diplomatic turmoil, out of all the propaganda and counter-propaganda of the present conflicts, there are two facts which stand out and which the whole world acknowledges.

2 VITAL AMERICANISMS

The first is that never before has the government of the United States done so much as in our recent past to establish and maintain the policy of the good neighbor with its sister nations.

The second is that in almost every nation in the world today there is a true public belief that the United States has been, and will continue to be, a potent and active factor in seeking the re-establishment of peace.

In these recent years we have had a clean record of peace and goodwill. It is an open book that cannot be twisted or defamed. It is a record that must be continued and enlarged.

So I hope that Americans everywhere will work out for themselves the several alternatives which lie before world civilization, which necessarily includes our own.

We must look ahead and see the possibilities for our children if the rest of the world comes to be dominated by concentrated force alone—even though today we are a very great and a very powerful nation.

TRUTH MAKES MEN FREE

We must look a head and see the effect on our future if all the small nations throughout the world have their independence snatched from them or become mere appendages to relatively vast and powerful military systems.

We must look ahead and see the kind of lives our children would have to lead if a large part of the rest of the world were compelled to worship the God imposed by a military ruler, or were forbidden to worship God at all; if the rest of the world were forbidden to read and hear the facts—the daily news of their own and other nations—if they were deprived of the truth which makes men free.

We must look ahead and see the effect on our future generations if world peace trade is controlled by any nation or group of nations which sets up that control through military force.

It is, of course, true that the record of past centuries includes destruction of small nations, enslavement of peoples, and building of empires on the foundation of force.

CANT HIDE HEADS

But wholly apart from the greater international morality which we seek today, we recognize the practical fact that with modern weapons and modern conditions, modern man can no longer live a civilized life if we are to go back to the practice of wars and conquests of the 17th and 18th centuries.

Summing up this need of looking ahead, and in words of common sense and good American citizenship, I hope that we will have fewer American ostriches in our midst. It is not good for the ultimate health of ourselves to bury their heads in the sand.

Only an ostrich would look upon these wars through the eyes of cynicism or ridicule.

Of course, the peoples of other nations have the right to choose their own form of government. But

Lineup Today For Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Here is the party lineup for the 1940 Congress:

Senate House
Democrats	69 259
Republicans	23 164
Farmer-Labor	2 1
Progressives	1 2
American Labor	0 1
Independent	1 0
Vacancies	0 8
Total	96 435

we in this nation still believe that such choice should be predicated on certain freedoms which we think are essential everywhere. We know that we ourselves will never be wholly safe at home unless other governments recognize such freedoms.

SOLID AMERICAN FRONT

Twenty-one American republics, expressing the will of 250,000,000 people to preserve peace and freedom in this hemisphere are displaying a unanimity of ideals and practical relationships which gives hope that what is being done here can be done on other continents.

We in all the Americas are coming to the realization that we can retain our respective nationalities without, at the same time, threatening the national existence of our neighbors.

Such truly friendly relationships, for example, permit us to follow our own domestic policies with reference to our agricultural products, while at the same time we have the privilege of trying to work out mutual assistance arrangements for a world distribution of world agricultural surpluses.

And we have been able to apply the same simple principle to many manufactured products—surpluses of which must be sold in the world export markets if we would continue a high level of production and employment.

SCORES BLIND SELFISHNESS

For many years after the World War blind economic selfishness in most countries, including our own, resulted in a destructive mine-field of trade restrictions which blocked the channels of commerce among nations. This policy was one of the contributing causes of existing wars. It damned up vast unsalable surpluses, helping to bring about unemployment and suffering in the United States and everywhere else.

To point the way to break up the log-jam, our trade agreements act was passed—and based upon a policy of equality of trade among nations and of mutually profitable arrangements of trade.

It is not correct to infer that legislative powers have been transferred from the Congress to the executive branch of the government. Everybody recognizes that general tariff legislation is a congressional function, but we know that, because of the stupendous task involved in the fashioning and passing of a general law, it is advisable to provide at times of emergency some flexibility to make the general law adjustable to quickly changing conditions.

TRADE AID TO PEACE

We are in such a time today. Our present trade agreement method provides a temporary flexibility and is, therefore, practical in the best sense. It should be kept alive to serve our trade interests—agricultural and industrial—in many valuable ways during the existing wars.

But what is more important, the trade agreements act should be extended as an indispensable part of the foundation of any stable and durable peace.

The old conditions of world trade made for no enduring peace; and when the time comes, the United States must use its influence to open up the trade channels of the world in order that no nation need feel compelled in later days to seek by force or arms what it can well gain by peaceful conference. For this purpose we need the trade agreements act even more than when it was passed.

I emphasize the leadership which this nation can take when the time comes for a renewal of world peace. Such an influence will be greatly weakened if this government becomes a dog in the manger of trade selfishness.

AGAINST FOREIGN ALLIANCES

The first President of the United States warned us against entangling foreign alliances. The present President of the United States

But trade co-operation with the rest of the world does not violate that precept in any way.

Even as through these trade agreements we prepared to co-operate in a world that wants peace, we must likewise be prepared to take care of ourselves if the world cannot attain peace.

For several years past we have been compelled to strengthen our own national defense. That has created a very large portion of our treasury deficits.

This year in the light of continuing world uncertainty, I am asking the Congress for army and navy increases which are based not on panic but on common sense. They are not as great as enthusiastic alarmists seek. They are not as small as unrealistic persons claiming superior private information would demand.

ASKS ADDITIONAL TAXES

As will appear in the annual budget tomorrow, the only important increase in any part of the budget is the estimate for national defense. Practically all other important items show a reduction. Therefore, in the hope that we can continue in these days of increasing economic prosperity to reduce the federal budget, I am asking the Congress to levy sufficient additional taxes to meet the emergency spending for national defense.

Behind the army and navy, of course, lies our ultimate line of defense—the general welfare of our people. We cannot report, despite all the progress we have made in our domestic problems—despite the fact that production is back to 1929 levels—that all our problems are solved. The fact of unemployment of millions of men and women remains a symptom of a number of difficulties in our economic system not yet adjusted.

SURPLUS OF LABOR

While the number of the unemployed has decreased, while their immediate needs for food and clothing—as far as the federal government is concerned—have been largely met, while their morale has been kept alive by giving them useful public work, we have not yet found a way to employ the surplus of our labor which the efficiency of our industrial processes has created.

We refuse the European solution of using the unemployed to build up excessive armaments which eventually result in dictatorships. We encourage an American way through an increase of national income, which is the only way we can be sure will take up the slack. Much progress has been made; much remains to be done.

We recognize that we must find an answer in terms of work and opportunity.

The unemployment problem today has become very definitely a problem of youth as well as of age. As each year has gone by hundreds of thousands of boys and girls have come of working age. They now form an army of unused youth. They must be an asset.

RAPS "DEFEATISM"

We must continue, above all things, to look for a solution of this special problem. For they, looking ahead to life, are entitled to action on our part and not merely to admonitions of optimism or lectures on economic laws.

Sure in our midst have sought to instill a feeling of fear and defeatism in the minds of the American people about this problem.

To face the task of finding jobs faster than invention can take them away is not defeatism. To warble easy platitudes that if we will only go back to ways that have failed everything will be all right—is not courage.

We met a problem of real fear and real defeatism in 1933. We faced the facts—with action, not with words.

The American people will reject the doctrine of fear, confident that in the '30's we have been building soundly a new order of things different from the order of the '20's. In this dawn of the decade of the '40's, with our program of social improvement started, we must continue to carry on the processes of recovery so as to preserve our gains and provide jobs at living wages.

OTHER ITEMS LISTED

There are, of course, many other items of great public interest which could be enumerated in this message—the continued conservation of our natural resources, the improvement of health and of education, the extension of Social Security to larger groups, the freeing of large areas from restricted transportation discriminations, the extension of the merit system and many others.

Our continued progress in the social and economic field is important to our national resources. Each part of it but for the total effect which our program of domestic betterment has upon that most valuable asset of a nation in dangerous times—its national unity.

The permanent security of America in the present crisis does not lie in armed force alone.

EVIL FORCES WE FACE

What we face is a set of world-wide forces of disintegration, vicious, ruthless, destructive of all the moral, religious and political standards which mankind, after centuries of struggle, has come to cherish most.

In these moral values, in these forces which have made our nation great, we must actively and practically reassert our faith.

These words—"national unity"—must not be allowed to become merely a high sounding phrase, a vague generality, a pious hope, to which everyone can give lip-service. They must be made to have real meaning in terms of the daily thoughts and acts of every man, woman and child in our land during the coming year and the years that lie ahead.

For national unity is, in a very real and deep sense, the fundamental safeguard of all democracy. Doctrines which set group against group, faith against faith, race against race, class against class, fanning the fires of hatred in men too dependent, too desperate to think for themselves, were used as rabble-rousing slogans on which dictators could ride to power.

ALERT AGAINST DANGER

And once in power they could saddle their tyrannies on whole nations, and on their weaker neighbors. This is the danger to which we uncertainty, I am asking the Congress for army and navy increases which are based not on panic but on common sense..."

"... The only important increase in any part of the budget is the estimate for national defense. Practically all other items show a reduction."

"Therefore, in the hope that we can continue... to reduce the federal deficit, I am asking the Congress to levy sufficient additional taxes to meet the emergency spending for national defense."

In America must begin to be more alert. For the apologists for foreign aggressors, and equally those selfish and partisan groups at home who wrap themselves in a false mantle of Americanism to promote their own economic, financial or political advantage, are now trying European tricks upon us, seeking to muddy the stream of our national thinking, weakening us in the face of danger, by trying to set our own people to fighting among themselves.

Such tactics are what have helped to plunge Europe into war. We must combat them, as we would the plague, if American integrity and security are to be preserved. We cannot afford to face the future as a disunited people.

MUST BE UNITED

We must as a united people keep abreast in this continent the flames of human liberty, of reason, of democracy and of fair play as living things to be preserved for the better world that is to come.

Overstatement, bitterness, vituperation and the beating of drums have contributed mightily to ill-feeling and wars between nations. If these unnecessary and unpleasant actions are harmful in the international field, they are also harmful in the domestic scene. Peace among ourselves would have some of the advantage of peace between us and other nations. And in the long run history amply demonstrates that any controversy surely wins less than calm discussion.

In the spirit, therefore, of a greater usefulness, recognizing that the world—including the United States of America—passes through perilous times, I am very hopeful that the closing session of the 76th Congress will consider the needs of the nation and of humanity with calmness, tolerance and co-operative wisdom.

May the year 1940 be pointed to by our children as another period when democracy justified its existence as the best instrument of government yet devised by mankind.

Plea for Special Session Fails

The State Federation of Labor failed today to corral enough legislators to petition for a special session and developments resulted in a sharp attack on Governor Silton today by Kenneth L. Taylor, secretary of the federation.

After canvassing members of both branches to support the labor group's petition for the special session to amend the old-age and unemployment laws, 24 votes were lacking in the lower branch and six in the upper.

Secretary Taylor, in a statement issued later said:

"The failure of a sufficient number of members of the Legislature to petition for a special session expose a very important fact to the citizens of Massachusetts."

"The aged citizens and others are now completely aware that Governor Silton still is not the promise-keeper he claimed to be last fall."

Swett Resigns His State Job

Within 24-hours of the deadline set by Governor Silton last week, Warren J. Swett of Canton, trustee at the Wrentham State School for the Deaf and Blind, today sent his resignation to the State House.

The governor, out with a heavy cold, did not receive the resignation. It is reported that he will accept it immediately. Last week a public hearing was set for the study of charges against Swett. The hearing was called off, however, and he was given a week in which to resign.

Previously the Governor had demanded that he quit. Swett was appointed to the post by former Governor James M. Cusley.

high of approximately $2,000,000,000.

In today's message the President set no figures, pointing out they would be forthcoming tomorrow in his annual budget message. In his constantly recurring appeal for national unity the President scoffed at efforts to set up any political party or bloc as "the peace party."

He asked Congress for greater power in drafting reciprocal trade agreements and pointed out that several tariff legislations was a tedious process, whereas the trade setup was highly flexible and could meet day-to-day situations. As the President repeatedly insisted, he does not look for this country to become actually involved in war.

GARNER STILL NOISE

As the hour for the session began filling with members, some in formal morning attire of cutaways and striped trousers, but most in ordinary business suits.

The noise of their conversation and laughter finally was cut short when Vice-President Garner abruptly tapped the Senate to order and Speaker Barkhead banged the House into silence.

Senators then stood with bowed heads while the Rev. Barney T. Phillips, chaplain, prayed and a similar brief service was held in the House under the guidance of the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, House chaplain.

Both sides then went through the motions of formally notifying President Roosevelt and each other they were in session as if they did not already know—and then, except for swearing in three new Representatives there remained little to do except wait for the President to appear.

GUARD FOR PRESIDENT

The same extraordinary precautions taken to protect the President when the special session began in September were in order.

A force of 150 city policemen was detailed to assist the secret service. Capitol guards and G-men in patrolling Mr. Roosevelt's route from the Executive Mansion to the House chamber. A few held on duty last midnight when the doors to the big-domed Capitol were locked, and special cards of admission were required for entrance today.

Congress opens up today on taxes, debts and budgets. Switching the subject is like a change of pace on a treadmill. You're still not going anywhere.

At noon the third session of the 76th Congress meets by appointment for lunch hour. We see no real reason to worry about the debt ceiling when the administration has done such a good plastering job on the walls.

P. S. If the Republicans don't get some economy in 1940 there will be nothing for them to be extravagant with in 1941.

DIES DEMANDS PROSECUTION OF REDS, BUND

Declares Quiz Bared Plot Against U. S.

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (INS)—Prosecution of the Communist Party and the German-American Bund as agents of the Russian and German governments was demanded by the Dies Committee in a unanimous formal report to the House covering a 12-months inquiry into subversive activities.

The 18,000-word document declared the Communist party "is actually functioning as a 'border patrol' on American shores for a foreign power," and accused Russia of violating the 1933 treaty of recognition with the United States in which the Soviet Union solemnly pledged not to interfere in this country's domestic affairs.

"Examination of testimony and evidence received can only lead the committee to the conclusion that the German-American Bund must be classified with the Communist party as an agent of a foreign government," the report added.

DEMANDS PROSECUTION

"Although at the present time it is difficult to establish the international ties of the Bund as clearly as in the case of the Communist party, no reasonable person can read the testimony on the Bund and believe other than that the Bund is operating primarily in the interest of Germany.

Assessing that its "efforts to expose un-American activities should keep pace with an active campaign of prosecution," the committee formally requested the House to extend the life of the inquiry into un-American activities "to the end that America and American institutions may successfully repel these insidious forms of attack."

LISTS OTHER GROUPTS

The life of the committee first established in 1938 and continued by the House last year, expired with the filing of its report today. The voluminous document was by no means confined to findings on the Bund and the Communist party, but also led examinations in the country which had been "sponsored" with or without "front" for each of them.

It fully branded international organizations as "Communist fronts," passed two others for Communist affiliations and found Communist leadership is "entrenched" in ten C. I. O. unions.

U. S. WORKERS ON ROLLS

Declaring that a "careful examination of the facts justifies the assertion that the Communist party is a foreign conspiracy masked as a political party," the committee said the following "are properly classified as Communist 'front' organizations:

American League for Peace and Democracy, International Workers Order, American Student Union, Friends of the Soviet Union, National Negro Congress, Southern Negro Youth Congress, League of American Writers, Workers' Alliance

Spanish Refugee Relief Campaign, and the North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy.

(The Spanish Refugee Relief Campaign has for its honorary chairman one of President Roosevelt's Cabinet—Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes.)

In addition, the committee scored the International Labor Defense as "essentially the legal defense arm" of the Communist party, and declared that it was "unable to see how" American Youth Congress—which has repeatedly been defended by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt—could serve American aims when it remains a Communist minority to at times exert upon it an "influence out of all proportion to its size."

To the American League for Peace and Democracy—which committee evidence showed has 700 government officials and employees in its Washington branch—the committee devoted a special section in the report.

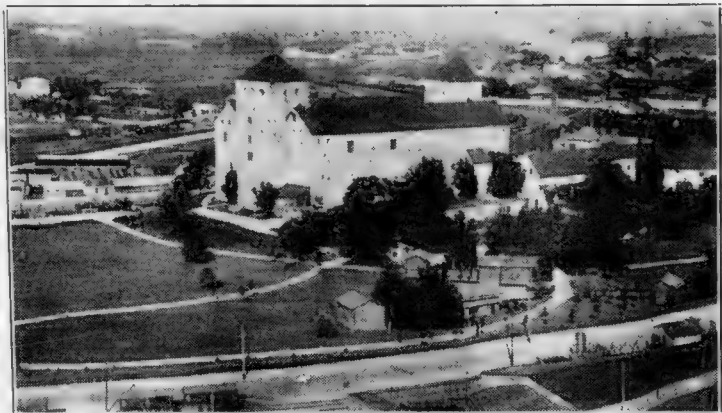

URGES LABOR FREE SELF

"We find that it has probably been the most effective of all the United Front organizations in drawing innocent and earnest people into activities co-operative with the Communist party."

Urging the American labor movement to free itself of Communist control "as speedily as possible" wherever it might exist, the report declared that "on the basis of evidence submitted" Communist leadership is "entrenched" in the following CIO unions:

National Maritime Union; United Cannery, Packing and Allied Workers; Federation of Architects, Engineers, Chemists and Technicians; Fur Workers International Union; International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union; Transport Workers Union; United Office and Professional Workers Union; American Communications Ass'n; United Electrical Radio and Mechanical Workers of America; and the United Furniture Workers of America.

Organizations with which the Bund has "worked sympathetically," the committee said, include: The Christian Front, the Christian Mobilizers, the Christian Crusade, the Social Justice Society, the Silver Shirl Legion of America, the Knights of the White Camellia, and various Fascist, White Russian and Ukrainian organizations.

Sign Contract For 3 Huge Flying Boats

A contract for three giant transoceanic flying boats for service on the American Export Airlines non-stop route to Europe was signed today by W. H. Coverdale, airline president, and representatives of the Vought Sikorsky Aircraft Co.

In order to speed production and engineering on the giant liners a down payment was made as the company officials prepared for further hearings before the Civil Aeronautics Authority on their proposed non-stop flights.

The first craft is expected to be ready for delivery next December. It will have a wing span of 124 feet, an overall length of 79 feet three inches and will be powered by four Pratt & Whitney engines of 1200 horsepower each. Accommodations for 16 passengers, a crew of 11 and a payload of mail and express will be available.

The non-stop service will make it possible for passengers to leave New York in the morning and be in Italy the following afternoon where rail and air connections can speed them to Paris, London, Berlin, Budapest and other important capitals either the same evening, or the following morning.

American Export Airlines is a subsidiary of the American Export Steamship Lines.

CLAIM U. S. CASH AIDS IRISH REVOLT

DUBLIN, Jan. 3 (AP)—A charge that the outlawed Irish Republican army was financed with money from the United States was made in Parliament today as legislators met in special session to draft drastic laws to combat any menace to public safety.

Justice Minister Gerald Boland, describing a raid on the Phoenix Park Arsenal Dec. 23, when huge quantities of ammunition were stolen, declared the Irish government was sure that large sums of money had come from America to finance the IRA extremists.

Government agents have captured packages of American currency, he told Parliament, which met under heavy guard amid rumors of an impending rebellion.

Boland said persons connected with the illegal organization had "large sums of money, arms and explosives" and were engaged in hostile activities.

Prime Minister Eamon de Valera, asked Parliament for emergency powers by which the government could intern anyone "whose liberty may be a menace to the public safety."

On the basis that the measure was faulty, the opposition objected and suggested a constitutional amendment along the same lines.

Nazis Burn Allied Plane in Belgium

BRUSSELS, Jan. 3 (AP)—A British plane pursued by a German air patrol over German territory today fell in flames in Belgium about six miles from the German city of Aix-La-Chapelle.

One of the British flyers landed by parachute while two others jumped out of the plane's wreckage with only light injuries.

A British soldier who crossed the frontier from France yesterday near Mouscron was arrested and interned.

French Guns Blast At German Plane

PARIS, Jan. 3 (INS)—Anti-aircraft batteries in the Paris region went into action during the night against a lone German reconnaissance plane which flew over the district, it was revealed today.

No air raid alarm was sounded. Other German planes flew over eastern France and also photographed areas behind the Allied front lines, French authorities said. British and French planes carried out similar reconnoitering flights.

HAS 7 SONS, JOINS MOTHERS TO BAR U. S. FOREIGN WAR

With seven sons of age to be sacrificed on foreign soil for a cause which does not concern the United States, a Boston mother, Mrs. C. Minichiello of 52 West Cedar st., joins with other New England mothers in the National Legion of Mothers of America. Mrs. Minichiello writes:

"I would like to join in the group of all the mothers who are against war. I have seven sons and do not want to lose them."

The World War is still a painful memory to a Quincy mother, wife of a war veteran and sister of a disabled soldier.

The mother, Mrs. Franklin P. Buhl of 32 Chestnut st., writes:

"I am the wife of a war veteran and sister of a soldier who was disabled in the World War. On Dec. 9, 1921, he passed away in a hospital for mental diseases. It was very hard for me to lose my only brother. But as I had a chance to see some of the veterans with the minds of a child, my heart goes out to the mothers of young men who are trying to keep this nation from being involved in another war."

"I have a son who has had two enlistments in the army and who is planning to join again. I think it is a great honor for young men in peace time. Please accept my pledge card. I am more than honored to belong to such a great American organization."

WARNS OF PROPAGANDA

From a Brookline wife who served with the British army overseas as an anesthetist during the World War comes a plea to spare the youth of America from the suffering which she remembers so vividly. The wife, Mrs. C. L. Hutchins of 138 Amory st., writes:

"I wish to join the Legion of Mothers and enclose my pledge. From one who served from May, 1917, to April, 1919, with the British army overseas as anesthetist during the World War, I can honestly say that I always felt that Americans should not have been over there. And I feel more strongly today, now that this is not our fight."

"I am still registered with the American Red Cross and expect to respond to any call which does not take our soldiers in Europe. We are flooded with very subtle propaganda, surely leading us to go to the aid of Great Britain. When the time comes for a peace it must be just peace, and if we remain out of the conflict we can help rebuild the wreck and, perhaps, establish a new era in which good will is the watchword."

"KEEP THEM HERE"

From Miss Anna J. Kuklinska of Montrose ave., Wakefield, comes her pledge card in the Legion and she writes:

"I have two brothers who would be subject to the first draft and a third one in high school, and I shall spare no effort to keep them where they belong—in America for America."

A mother of six sons, Mrs. Julia Rogers of 224 Main st., Everett, writes in joining the Legion:

"I have six sons, five of them of war age. I do not begrudge them to our beloved country, America, but I do not want them in foreign countries that are always looking for war and where their leaders are nothing but cold-blooded murderers."

Finland Fund Tops $101,000, Says Hoover

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, national chairman of the Finnish relief fund, reports that a total of $101,073 was collected up to Dec. 24 by 220 of the 1200 newspapers in all parts of the country that helped sponsor the fund.

Hoover said many other newspapers were holding contributions until they could send in a sizable check.

The former President stressed in his announcement that of every dollar donated to the relief fund "100 cents goes to Finland," with administrative costs met by private subscription.

Hoover said the fund 'already had sent $300,000 to Finland to aid civilian victims of the war, adding that more than $100,000 had been received in amounts of one dollar or less.

Censorship of Mails Hit Here

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (INS)—The United States government has lodged a "vigorous protest" against British censorship of American transatlantic mail, but it holds small hope the British will desist. The State Department published a note delivered to British Dec. 22, branding as illegal its seizure of registered mail, ordinary mail and parcel post, sent from the United States to German and neutral European ports.

Government legal experts said the department had acquiesced indirectly in an identical British censorship during the World War, however, thus robbing the present protest of its force.

During their orientation at contraband control stations, Oct. 10-24, the note charged, the British took from the American steamships Black Gull and Black Tern, and from the neutral ships, Zandam and Astrid-Thorden, a total of 1735 sacks of United States mail.

Finns in Battle To Close Red Trap

victory of the war in Finland, the dispatch said.)

During the first month of the war, according to a review issued by the Finns today, 400 Russian tanks were destroyed or captured and the Russians lost 150 planes.

RUSSIANS STARVE, FREEZE

Pitiful descriptions are reaching Helsinki of the plight of Russian soldiers in the sub-zero weather north of Lake Ladoga.

Prisoners said the Russians were badly equipped, freezing and hungry.

Only one in 10, it was asserted, had ever seen a rifle before he was put into the front lines, and none had any experience with automatic weapons.

Finns described the Russian troops as the "incarnation of helplessness," awakening spontaneous pity elsewhere.

With the front comparatively quiet, save at Salla, Finland's parliament was called in special session today.

SNOW HALTS REDS

Questions to be placed before the legislators for a decision were not revealed, but it was believed certain that they would relate to matters of Finland's defense against the Soviet invasion and the general conduct of the war.

Heavy snow storms raged virtually throughout the entire nation. A driving blizzard on the Karelian Isthmus reduced visibility to "zero" there and halted a Russian drive against the Mannerheim line virtually in its tracks.

AT 40 BELOW ZERO

Aerial activity and other types of warfare on all fronts was reduced to a minimum as temperatures fell to as low as 20 below zero in the south and 40 below in the north.

Despite the temporary lull in Karelia, it appeared that the Russians facing the Mannerheim line are preparing for a new offensive there as soon as the weather permits.

Finnish authorities in Helsinki, however, expressed confidence any Russian drive against the fortifications stretching across the isthmus would be doomed to failure.

The Finnish high command had only announced a new victory to the north—capture of a Russian military base at Aittajoki, north of Lake Ladoga—when the blizzard came.

PUT 46,000 TO ROUT

Finnish troops won this victory after fierce hand-to-hand fighting and put some 46,000 Soviet troops to rout. The Finnish military communiqué stated:

"When our troops took the base they captured three machine guns, a complete field kitchen, 400 overcoats and other war materials."

Reports reaching Helsinki told of renewed Soviet aerial bombings yesterday, but adding that the Finnish air force and anti-aircraft batteries shot down seven Russian planes.

Other advices stated that following the Finnish victory at Suomussalmi, in which a Russian division of 20,000 men was annihilated, two more major Soviet units totalling 26,000 men had been caught in ever tightening traps set by the white-clad defenders.

REDS IN ICE TRAP

Ten thousand of these Red army troops were cut off from their bases and communication lines on the frozen Tundra of the Petsamo front in the far north. Some reports indicated they might even surrender without putting up further resistance.

Another 16,000 Russians were reported encircled and virtually at the mercy of Finnish forces on the Salla front, where, Helsinki authorities said, they anticipated a victory even more decisive than that won a few days ago in the Suomussalmi war zone.

Today, on the Petsamo front where the Russian situation appeared desperate, bitter, sub-zero weather prevented much activity for the moment.

South on the Salla front, activities continued as the Finns sought to clinch the victory that appeared virtually within their grasp. Authorities predicted a "final annihilating attack" against the Russians trapped there in the near future.

Despite the trapping of 10,000 Russians by Finnish ski fighters on the Petsamo front, great quantities of war materiel in aid supplies are still being landed near Petsamo by the Soviets.

It appeared that the Russians, despite their reverses on the Polar front, were determined to renew the struggle there at the first opportunity in a desperate attempt to regain lost ground.

BLOCK AID FOR FINNS, NAZIS' AIM

BERLIN, Jan. 3 (INS)—Chancellor Hitler was expected today to return to Berlin shortly, following consultations at Munich with Baron Konstantin von Neurath and other members of the cabinet.

It was believed Hitler and his aides have canvassed all possibilities in the event the Anglo-French allies seek to aid the Finns against Russia, or if Sweden and Norway go to Finland's assistance.

The German attitude toward any Anglo-French move remains one of complete opposition. German authorities contend they will not permit any Anglo-French move to gain bases in the north which might be used for an attack against Germany.

British and French efforts to aid Finland, it was contended, might drag that country into the main European conflict.

Nevertheless, neutral observers in Berlin were inclined to believe developments regarding Finland passage another "solution" war such as was fought in Spain, without any international openly warring for or against Russia.

Governor's Council Confirms Hultman

The Governor's Council today unanimously confirmed the reappointment of Eugene C. Hultman as chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission.

Statutes decree that the chairman also serve as chairman of the Water Supply Commission. The combined salary is $8400 yearly.

HOLDS RESIGNATION

When the Council's action assured continuation of Hultman at the post State House caucus were expected to report the Governor's appointment of Hultman's agreed resignation for use any time.

The resignation reportedly was submitted after the Governor had expressed confidence in Hultman's administration of patronage by Hultman's office.

In a batch of new appointments former State Treasurer John W. Hagan of Greenfield, who defeated Governor Saltonstall in 1936 for the Republican nomination for the governorship of Massachusetts, was named trustee of Massachusetts State College, in place of John F. Cannon of Pittsfield, whose term has expired.

Hagan was defeated for the governorship in 1936 by Charles F. Hurley the Democratic candidate.

nightgown from a second floor porch, and was unhurt.

One of the dead tentatively identified as Florence Hessing, 30, had lived in an apartment on the third floor.

She jumped from a third floor window and died instantly.

CALL ALL AMBULANCES

Water pouring from fire hoses froze nearly as soon as it hit the walls, and hoses froze to the ground. All the apparatus was sheathed in ice.

Witnesses said the fire appeared to erupt simultaneously from all nine entrances to the three sections of the apartment.

Dick Daniels, professional boxer, suffered leg and possible internal injuries when he jumped from the window of his third floor apartment.

7 Flee Fire As Melrose Home Burns

Of all the brilliant runs made by young Leo Spadafora on the Melrose high school gridiron none compared with the dash he made today to sound a fire alarm.

Clad only in pajamas, the high school athlete sprinted three blocks to a fire alarm box from his home in Melrose st., Melrose.

Seven other persons, including Leo's parents and their two other children and the Alfred J. Smiths and their daughter, were driven to the streets.

Damage was estimated at $3000.

Loan Company Fined $1250

Fines totaling $1250 were assessed by Judge Edward F. Hanly today in Suffolk Superior Court against the R. & A. Investment Co., Inc., after a plea of guilty to charges of lending money at rates of interest in excess of the legally established maximum of 12 per cent yearly.

Included in the sentence was a $500 fine imposed on Morris Rudnick, officer of the company, who was charged in one of the indictments.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Maurice M. Goldman, who has been conducting investigations against loan companies, announced additional indictments against the R. & A. and Rudnick will be nolle prossed.

Forecasters Miss Sectional Trends

Forecasters are out in force... With their ideas of what to expect from 1940... Assimilation of individual thoughts on the outlook is a difficult business... Largely because of failure, or unwillingness, to break them down into sectional affairs...

NATIONAL... Prosperity is naturally a matter of concern to all... But New Englanders once assured of general gains want specific data on the outlook pertaining to sectional interests... This need is best satisfied by year-round standby services... Which follow trends from day to day... The Brookline Economic Map showing indicated spending trends by States is one of our favorite paying better wages for the hire of your money... To attempt such a substitution is to create a paradox, a self contradiction... And these, believe me, lead to the most costly ventures in finance and investment...

DETERMINATION... To seek that which bankers know does not exist also raises the problem of knowledge... You say you know guides... And it promises prospects ranging from fair to good in the next few months... Prospects averaging a shade better than those of the country as a whole...

BEST OUTLOOK... In New England is faced by Vermont... A 12 per cent gain over a year ago is indicated... New Hampshire and Connecticut rank next with 7 and 5 per cent gains respectively forecast... Maine, Rhode Island and Massachusetts are expected to show about 2 per cent improvement over 1939... These figures compare with a 5 per cent gain estimated for the United States... A gain expected to result very largely from improved conditions in heavy industry manufacturing areas... Which places the anticipated improvement in this consumer goods section in a most favorable light...

AN ANSWER... To an inquiry by M. R. of Allston calls for a statement on investment policy that applies to many readers who have done the oversights the honor of asking his advice... M. R. says: 'I wish to invest all of my money in bonds or some good, reliable stocks, that will return a nice income, as the banks pay so little'... That calls for a personal decision that is really a momentous one... Particularly since M. R. adds 'knowing nothing about investments I feel'... To M. R. and all others bedeviled by the same problem the answer is an emphatic NO... For reasons to follow...

BEGINNING... At the beginning we find low interest rates forcing the problem of a switch... Bankers, M. R., are professional investors... And it stands to reason that if they could obtain good investments paying higher rates depositors would be getting more liberal interest... Since they can not do so many like yourself ally forth to find 'something just as good as a bank book' but nothing of investments... again please accept my word, written on the basis of experience... The field of investment is never fully explored... As times and fashions change, so too, do investment policies... For the uninitiated nothing could be more dangerous... At the very least familiarity with its principles is demanded... Otherwise the signs and portents calling for a change in bond and stock holdings pass unseen...

STARVATION... Wages for money are not new... Back around the turn of the century forecasters saw lean days ahead for owners of money... They did not materialize... Today few can see anything but lean days... Permanency of present interest levels is freely predicted... And yet, M. R., permanency is the ONE thing the student of investment first learns never exists... Your savings bank book represents safety, by grace of capable custodianship... And, in this state, that safety factor is proven permanent by banking history... To seek a greater return in stocks and bonds is to compromise the safety I am sure you and many others need above all other things...

NOTEBOOK... The stock market began 1940 on the right foot... To us it looks higher... Speculators made timid by a poor response to summer and fall earnings will gain courage as values lift... Particularly since they will see any move contrary to contracting industrial figures as a promise of spring improvement... The silence of the oil industry can be summed up in one word—inventory... The chart requires no explanation... Consumption is gaining year by year... But stocks on hand show even larger increases... The answer is found in the attempts of the industry to cater to fuel oil expansion... With the result heavy refinery runs have built up gasoline stocks perling an already lagging price structure...

Stock Market Leaders Up in Quiet Dealings

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP)—Stock market prices opened modestly today and leaders added fractions to a point or more.

The extension of yesterday's little rally began with a quiet opening after which trading picked up a bit of speed.

Included in the upturn were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Sperry, International Harvester, American Telephone, Anaconda, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Edison, Santa Fe, New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroad.

The apathy of traders was explained by the fact Congress was to meet at noon, with President Roosevelt's annual message due two hours later. The report of the Dies committee on un-American activities was also expected.

Markets at London and Amsterdam were inclined to be stronger in the gut-edged sections, otherwise irregular.

Commodities pointed upward as did bonds.

Of special Wall Street interest were the Dec. 31 ending statements of the big New York banks of which the city has five in the billion-dollar deposit classification compared with three a year ago. Virtually all showed increased holdings in the final quarter.

Some covered dividend requirements by small margins but others had comfortable earnings over dividends in the final quarter.

The upturn in railway traffic which began in September helped many carriers. It was seen from preliminary estimates of earnings, to wipe out deficits of the early months of the year.

CHARGE SEC HALTS FLOW OF CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—A United States Chamber of Commerce committee says that new investment capital would flow into employment-creating enterprise if "the stringent and repressive provisions" of the Securities Exchange Act were removed.

Elimination of those provisions, the industrial finance committee said in its annual report, would not affect "essential objectives" of the law. It recommended that the 1933 and 1934 acts be consolidated into a single statute.

Tax Rendezvous Due Soon With U. S.

For those weary from Christmas shopping and apprehensive, perhaps, of next month's bills, there came today the mailman bearing a little reminder that you have a date with Uncle Sam on or before March 15.

Yes, more than 400,000 forms—including individual, corporation, partnership and fiduciary income tax blanks—have gone out from the office of Collector of Internal Revenue Thomas B. Hassett.

Bank Call Issued

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—The comptroller of the currency issued a call today for the condition of all national banks at the close of business Saturday, Dec. 30.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR N.E. INDUSTRY

Representative industries of New England showed an increase of 15 per cent in 1939 in comparison with 1933, and the economy of the region is in the best balanced position in 10 years, according to President C. F. Weed of the New England Council in a review of the year just closed.

In keeping with the best traditions of its long history New England recovered speedily from the hurricane disaster, he pointed out, and went on to push farm values above the pre-war level at a time when agricultural values of other sections of the country are 15 per cent below.

This year, Weed predicted, will be a good year for the tourist business. The 1939 upturn, he said, began to accelerate early in the summer and continued at higher levels after the outbreak of war in September. Virtually all lines shared in the upswing, the greatest gains being recorded in the metal industries.

During the year, he said, there was an encouraging increase in employment and factory payrolls.

"In some of our industrial centers the demand for workers has been so great as practically to absorb all the employable workers with consequent reduction in relief expenditures."

Farm income in 1939 compared favorably with the preceding year despite the hurricane losses suffered by tobacco growers in Connecticut.

The World's Fair at New York, however, affected the recreational industry adversely, but this is only "a temporary loss," he said. Millions of dollars formerly spent in European travel can be diverted to New England this year.

"Retail trade during the past year was above that of 1934," Weed added, "and according to preliminary estimates the Christmas business was perhaps the best in ten years. Not only were the stores crowded with buyers during the holiday season, but there has been some indication of an increase in the sale of quality goods."

He urged that the fight for government economies be continued.

Night Parley Fails To Fix Truck Wage

Failing to reach agreement in sessions which extended past midnight, representatives of 550 truck drivers and of 187 trucking companies were called to new negotiations today before the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation.

In the latest action, employers unanimously rejected drivers' demands for an increase of $1.40 a week in all classifications and for overtime to begin after eight working hours rather than at the end of a 44-hour week.

Byrd's Flagship Leaves New Zealand

DUNEDIN, New Zealand, Jan. 3 (INS)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd was aboard his flagship, North Star bound for new adventure and exploration in the icy, wind-swept wastes of Antarctica. His vessel will be followed shortly by the auxiliary ship Bear of Oakland. Both are scheduled to join forces on the edge of Antarctica where they will establish a base for Byrd's expeditionary operations by air and over the ice and snow.

J.P. Morgan Co. Reports Large Deposit Rise

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP)—The year-end condition statement of J. P. Morgan & Co. and its Philadelphia branch, Drexel & Co., showed total deposits of $619,512,516 compared with $590,431,245 on Sept. 30 and $321,164,533 on Dec. 31, 1938. Surplus and partners' balances amounted to $39,158,140 compared with $38,867,454 three months ago and $43,984,127 at the end of 1938. Holdings of U. S. government securities were $413,891,951 against $320,931,617 in September and $295,529,150 a year ago.

Chase National Bank reported 1939 net earnings of $13,315,000, against $13,000,000 on Sept. 31 and $12,234,333,000 on Dec. 31, 1938.

Holdings of U. S. government securities totaled $30,170,000 against $20,304,000 in September and $23,875,000 at the close of 1938.

COAST LICENSE FOR SON JIMMY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 3 (AP)—The insurance firm of Roosevelt and Sargent, Inc., a Massachusetts corporation, qualified today to do business in California.

James Roosevelt, son of the President, is president of the company. It will be located in Los Angeles. Roosevelt recently was one of a group of directors who filed articles of incorporation for a $1,000,000 motion picture company.

WIRTZ GETS U. S. POST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (INS)—President Roosevelt has appointed Alvin J. Wirtz, Austin, Tex., attorney, as Undersecretary of the Interior. The nomination for the $10,000 yearly post will be sent to the Senate late this week.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Monday night was a thrill! My starlets, Susan Hayward, June Preisser, Arleen Whalen, Joy Hodges, Jane Wyman and Ronald Reagan, who appear with me at the Capitol Theater in Washington, had the honor of opening the 1940 Warm Springs Foundation Infantile Paralysis drive.

Martha Raye, who is here at another theater, also appeared with my Hollywood group. We were introduced by Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen and I cannot tell you what a thrill it was to have the honor of opening the program which culminates in the President's birthday ball Jan. 30. We were all very happy that we from Hollywood were asked to give the inauguratory program.

Visited J. Edgar Hoover's office and his collection of casts in a Washington office is unusual for Eastern decoration.

Dr. I. Q. Quiz At Met Monday

Dr. I. Q., of radio fame, appears on the Metropolitan stage Monday evening for the first of a series of personal appearances, to be broadcast from the popular Tremont stage.

The program, which is featured every Monday night from 9 to 9:30 over an NEC coast-to-coast hook-up of 59 stations, will be identical with the Dr. I. Q. broadcasts you have been listening to so attentively.

A squad of roving announcers scattered through the theater will invite theatergoers to participate in the quiz show by answering the doctor's brain teasers. Well-informed participants will receive from Dr. I. Q. sizeable cash awards amounting approximately to $700 in silver dollars each week.

'G.W.T.W.' ENTERS THIRD WEEK AT STATE AND ORPHEUM

Seats on Sale For All Shows

Today, David O. Selznick's superlative technicolor production, "Gone With The Wind," begins its third week at Loew's State and Orpheum theaters.

Within the next seven days Hub movie-goers will still have an opportunity to see this gloriously successful translation of Margaret Mitchell's best-selling story of the South during the Civil War.

For her glowing portrayal of Scarlett O'Hara, the year's most enchanting and at the same time aggravating heroine, Britain's Vivien Leigh is being mentioned for the Academy award for best woman's performance of the year.

Bluff and handsome Clark Gable has been equally hailed for his splendid characterization of Rhett Butler. Another excellent portrayal is Olivia de Havilland.

Seats for this third week are now on sale at the box office of both Loew's houses, where good seats are available for all remaining reserved-seat performances. Mail orders, with check or money order enclosure as well as self-addressed stamped envelope, are being given preferred attention in the order of their arrival.

For the further convenience of ticket purchasers and to expedite telephonic sales, the management has provided additional telephone facilities for handling reservations. These reservations may be made at the State Theater by calling Kenmore 3666 or 1780 and at the Orpheum by telephoning Liberty 3491 or 1242.

At the State, there are two performances daily, at 1:30 and 8 p. m., with all seats reserved. At the Orpheum, there are three showings daily, at 10 a. m. and at 2:45 and 8 p. m., with all seats reserved at the final performance.

BELLE WATLING (Ona Munson) in David A. Selznick's technicolor production, "Gone With The Wind," which today goes into its final week at Loew's State and Orpheum.

Tops Beacon Bill

Beacon Theater's double-feature program for today and tomorrow includes "When Tomorrow Comes," and "Espionage Agent."

Ends Run Tonight

Today marks the final opportunity for Bostonians to see Clifford C. Fischer's "Folies Parisienne," revue, the same show which thrilled the San Francisco World's Fair patrons for five months, on the stage of the RKO Boston theater.

Seal Hired for New Musical

In a "signed, sealed and delivered" legal document, Dwight Deere Wiman's enterprising press representative, Tom Weatherly, makes it clear that there's nothing fishy about his recent announcement about the seal hired for the producer's forthcoming Rodgers-Hart-Huribut musical.

The seal's name is Sallie. She was born and bred by Mark Huling at his famous seal farm near Kingston, N. Y. In addition to a private trainer, tanks, etc., Sallie will be delivered with an understudy who is guaranteed to do all the tricks that Sallie can.

The script of the scenes in which Sallie appears must be sent to Huling three weeks in advance because it takes that length of time to perfect each trick. In case you didn't know, most seals are unable to work when overweight. Sallie, however, is unique because she can perform while sporting a full inch of blubber.

NO PRESIDENT of the United States has served more than eight years, or two terms.

Few have aspired to do so, and those few have not seriously challenged the tradition.

Our very greatest Presidents, who might have served more than two terms if they had wished to do so, have been the most insistent upon restricted tenure.

Among these were George Washington, Father of his Country and its first President, and Thomas Jefferson, founder of the Democratic party and its guide and inspiration ever since.

The American people have always seen the wisdom of this limitation on Presidential tenure, and have always expected even the most ambitious Presidents to abide by it, and it has always had the effect if not the form of law.

The time has come when the country should have greater safeguard against unlimited Presidential tenure than mere tradition.

More than a century and a half of experience and national existence have demonstrated that it is exceedingly wise to limit Presidents to two four-year terms, and that it would be excessively dangerous to do otherwise.

The Constitution of the United States should therefore BE AMENDED TO REQUIRE BY FIXED LAW what the people of the United States have always wisely desired and their patriotic Presidents have always loyally accepted.

IT IS DANGEROUS to leave such a vital matter to the decision of any President, no matter how able.

We may sometime have a President influenced by personal ambitions which warp his judgment.

We have fortunately had Presidents patriotic enough to follow in the footsteps of the other great Presidents who had preceded them, and to reject the idea of the third term as dangerous to democracy.

But we cannot be sure we will always have Presidents of that patriotic stature, and it should not be possible for any less patriotic President to violate or weaken this safeguard of democracy.

The only way to insure this is to MAKE THE CONSTITUTION FORBID THE THIRD TERM.

Then, an ambitious President, willing to sacrifice American conventions and institutions for his own purposes, would have to violate the Constitution in order to secure a third term.

While some politicians might seem willing to violate the Constitution, the people would hardly permit them to do so in such an important matter.

It is usual in Democracies to limit the term of office of the Chief Executive, because ALL countries realize the danger to democracy in a protracted term of office.

The United States would only be doing BELATEDLY what other nations have already done, in thus protecting democratic institutions.

THE RECORD of the past seven years has shown that the tendency to disregard and disparage American institutions is growing, and that the spread of autocracy in other nations throughout the world is having very definite and distinct effect upon political institutions everywhere.

Every ambitious politician views himself as a potential Hitler or Mussolini or Stalin, and in the effort to become such a one the first step is to discredit democratic institutions and relegate them to the ox cart period.

The second step is to center all the powers of the various branches of government in his own person.

The third step is to protract his term of office so that autocracy may be permanently and firmly fixed in the politics and politicians of his country.

No new program has to be devised.

The program which has made dictators in other lands need only be followed.

However, the plan and policy to PREVENT dictatorship should be equally obvious and chief among the preventives is the definite limitation of the tenure of office.

The Constitution should give our American convention in this vital matter the form and substance of inviolable LAW.

A CHILDISH "SPAT" That is how Dr. Kirtley F. Mather of Harvard University characterizes the current conflict abroad.

Speaking as a geologist who thinks in epochs of millions of years in the past and future, Dr. Mather voices the opinion that man, with only about 50,000 years to his credit as an erect, thinking animal, can expect "nearly or quite 500,000 more of existence for his kind."

Perhaps that is true. Perhaps the barbarism of Russia's invasion of Finland will eventually give way to sanity and intelligence.

Meanwhile, it is going to be difficult to convince the bombed Finn that the shell which struck him is either "childish" or the insignificant implement of a "spat."

Homeward

NOW, the highroad leads to adventure, and the highroad leads to thrills . . . But, O, for the little winding road that leads us over the hills . . . that leads us through the gloaming, where a candle's mellow ray . . . beckons the wanderer homeward, cheering him on his way . . . where a fire on the hearth is glowing, and a kettle is singing sweet . . . and rest and peace and comfort are waiting the weary feet.

For home is where the heart is, a place where one can live . . . and not thank some dictator for the work-hours he can give.

Human Side of News

By EDWIN C. HILL

WE WERE DOWN on the lower end of the island the other day, and as the mists lifted over the Statue of Liberty we saw that she wore a bustle, crinoline and hoopskirt, and that she had a wasp waist and a cute little bonnet with trailing ribbons.

She fended off the sun with a perky little parasol. Then she made a quick change into her classical robes, and I realized the momentary illusion had been conjured out of my troubled meditations about these new cartoon murals which embellish stately new public buildings at Washington, buildings which are otherwise severely classical in design.

The main cast of characters, with the gents in frock coats or custom-made suits, and the ladies in Lanvin models, or perhaps Mother Hubbards, are quite of a piece with the above glimpse of the Statue of Liberty in the garb of her period.

They dressed that way when she took her stance on Bedloe's Island, and if the current Washington mood had prevailed then we surely would have a Godey's Lady Book goddess.

TO BE SPECIFIC, here's the preview of the Maurice Sterne murals for the Department of Justice building, now being shown at the Fine Arts Gallery in New York. The theme of the 20 paintings, each ten feet by six, is "The Struggle for Justice." They are for the library of the above building.

We take at random the one called "Red Tape." We fear it would be disconcerting and would take our mind off our work if we were doing research in the library. There is a huge spider web, rimmed by the numerals of the clock, and in the center of the web is the desiccated skull of a Texas longhorn. Perched on the skull is a squirrel, gnawing at the base of one horn and apparently not getting much nourishment.

FOG-WRAPPED STATUE OF GODDESS OF LIBERTY
Don't Dress Her in Bustle, Crinoline and Hoopskirt

There are five semi-nude figures, but the climax of form and of interest is the late Justice Holmes, in his every-day suit, riding bareback on a white, prancing high-school saddle which looks as if it were about to take a bow. Justice Holmes poises a long lance and it is evident that he is going to take a poke at this red tape, symbolized by the spider web.

You can't help thinking he would do better with a broom than a lance.

There is, I believe, no graphic arts equivalent for the word "journalism." If there were such a word, it would characterize all of the Sterne murals, and a great many of the others of the vast new mural galleries of Washington. Maurice Sterne is a good artist, as are Leon Kroll, Henry Poore, George Biddle and sundry others who are executing themes for the Procurement Division of the Treasury.

LAST YEAR I saw two lunettes in the Justice Building done by Mr. Kroll. He had been given the theme of "Justice Thwarted" and "Justice Triumphant." He performed a miracle in somehow shading modern garb into classical lines.

But in the others the scrubby hillbilly in bib overalls, lanky, distorted, emaciated people contemplating a stunted banana and the like, all seemed to be screaming anachronisms, in the traditional neo-classic architecture of Washington.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3—We had a very pleasant dinner. Miss Cornelia Stabler gave us some delightful monologues. Her long one on "The Refugee" was particularly touching.

I think all of us were glad to have it followed by a very light-hearted comparison of a girl saying good night to her mother after a party in the 80's or 90's, and a present day girl doing the same thing in quite a different way.

Afterward, Mr. Pare Lorenz showed us a movie which he has written and directed and which is taken from Dr. Paul de Kruif's book, "The Right To Live." I found the picture interesting, but I doubt whether it will have a great popular appeal. However, for the sake of the interest which we should all have in this subject of maternity and infant care, I sincerely hope that large audiences see it.

WHEN the President offered his annual toast to the United States on the stroke of midnight, many of us drank a little private toast, I think, in gratitude to a kindly Providence which has seen fit to spare the nation from participation in war and, therefore, in mass tragedy.

ETHEL ROOSEVELT
"Practically Well Again"

Personally, I was grateful for two fairly narrow escapes in our own family. Ethel is practically well again, though she is still hobbling a little about the house, and Franklin, Jr., who acquired a little cold to add to his discomfort, is still more or less an invalid. Both of them, however, will look quite presentable in the course of the next few days and feel much more like themselves.

Our party here is beginning to break up. Major Hooker left Monday morning. Johnny and Anne have returned to Boston. Anna and John are taking the midnight train and going to work in New York City. The family is growing smaller, though some of them remain and will be here off and on, and the grandchildren will stay with us for some time.

I MUST TELL you of a number of interesting books which have come to me within the last few days. One of them is particularly delightful and has impressed me because of my necessity to think a good deal about food. This is a small book called: "Honor Among Cooks," with some recipes in it which I have been anxious to obtain for some time.

Then, to jump to something entirely different, there is a new Universal Jewish Encyclopedia, which should be extremely interesting to anyone wanting authoritative information on the Jewish people and their religion.

LaGUARDIA SPEECHES
OFF RADIO

Mayor LaGuardia

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—"LaGuardia never intended to talk about bringing the movies here for his Film Critics Circle broadcast," a radio official reveals at the Cotton Club. "But this was the seventh time this year that radio chains have refused to carry his speeches. This is no reflection on the mayor. It's just that during the World's Fair he made 32 successive broadcasts at the openings of the various foreign pavilions."

"Prince Dinsha of India gave the Duc de Verdura a $30,000 check, as a jewelry order," a jeweler reports at Fefe's Monte Carlo. "He told the Duc that when all the money was used up and the jewels delivered he'd give him another check." . . . "I just left Marie Wilson," a producer informs at Ruby Foo's. "She said that her drama career started at Sing Sing, when she appeared there this summer, and will wind up in Atlanta next month." . . . "Eddie Dowling, who produced Paul Vincent Carroll's first two plays," an actor states at La Conga, "has bought Carroll's new play." . . . "The Southern Tenant-Farmer Union expects thousands of evictions of sharecroppers on Jan. 10," a Washington official declares at El Morocco. "The FSA is working out a 5-point plan to absorb them."

DON AMECHE sits at Lindy's and listens to his colleagues tell of the many practical jokes which have been played upon them in Hollywood. "I confess," he reveals. "I did them." . . . "Lew Brown is stepping out of his night-club venture," a publicist informs at Long-champs. "It will operate without him." . . . "Jimmy Walker, who talked to LaGuardia about movie production in New York, is practical about it," a municipal aide states at Reuben's. "He doesn't think the entire film industry should move here—but only a percentage of the nation's movie exhibitors now operating here." . . . "I saw Mrs. Roosevelt send a wire," a musician relates. "She wrote her message on the blank—and then, automatically, started to count the words—to bring them down to ten."

"I'M GOING BACK to Hollywood in time for the rainy season there," Sir Cedric Hardwicke confides at the Rainbow Room. "I shall love the rain there. Hollywood otherwise is too perfect. Rain in Hollywood to me is like a pimple on the face of a star." . . . "I lunched at the Russian Inn in Philadelphia," Willie Howard relates, "and asked the manager whether there were Russians and Finns in the room. He said: 'Waddy want for $1.25—a war?' . . . Harry Herschfield, seeing his nephew, Jules Alberti, conduct the band at the Show Bar, is offered a drink by the management. 'I gave up drinking years ago,' Herschfield declares. "And while I'm at it—I gave up buying, too."

MARIE WILSON

EXCLUSIVE: In view of the fact that the formal title of the organization is the Hasty Pudding Institute of 1770, it may be conceded that the famous Harvard club—famous for its annual shows particularly—has a long history . . . But throughout the club's existence those yearly revels have been all male affairs . . . How many, many years have we been regaled with pictures of strong, blue-jowled students puffing on pipes and stogies while they wore their feminine wigs askew and crossed one bulbous knee over its mate! . . . It may be different this year . . . The officers of the Hasty Pudding Institute of 1770 have entered into negotiations with a New York glamour girl, the lovely Cobina Wright, Jr. . . . (And that means, if the officers don't know it, that they have entered negotiations with Cobina Wright, Sr., too).

YES, SIR, THE DEAL IS IN THE WORKS and if the sylphlike Cobie is receptive to the overtures, this year's Hasty Pudding show may afford the desperate photographers (who have been making the same set of "novelty" pictures for the past half-century or so) a bit of relief . . . Cobina, Jr., has been asked politely to consider an appearance as part of the Hasty Pudding unit when it plays at the Waldorf-Astoria in its annual Manhattan performance . . . Mind you, the tradition of Hasty Pudding as it demands that the female roles and chorus places still be filled by students—will not be violated . . . That would be too broad a step for a single year . . . But Miss Wright, if she is willing, can accept an invitation to sing with Stan Brown's orchestra, the Harvard Gold Coast Orchestra, as it is known . . . The band is, composed of Harvard men, undergrads mostly, and has been engaged to play the show and for dancing after the final curtain.

THE COBINAS, SR. AND JR., are in California . . . Young Cobina has been tested for pictures, but as stunning as she is, and vocally excellent (in spite of being a debutante) as she is, Cobina's height is a hazard for a picture-job . . . Anyway, the Hasty Pudding deal is on . . . Young Mr. Stan Brown, the maestro, incidentally, is a son of Jack Brown, Sr., of the Cash Manana, Boston . . . The elder Brown is called Jack Brown, Sr., to distinguish him from Jack Brown, Jr., who, although a partner in the uptown hot-spot, is not a relative . . . So much for our juniors and seniors—except for a bit of musing . . . The Clemson sophomore dervish named Timmons, who at this very minute is probably haunting the dreams of a homeward-bound covey of Boston College Eagles, will be a senior in 1941—when Clemson and B. C. (exclusive) will play either at Fenway Park or a new Boston municipal stadium . . .

AND HERE'S A TIP on the subject of that stadium . . . Now that the Boston City Council has met and elected a president, watch for an early motion by Councilor Michael J. Ward of Ward 21 (Brighton) which will suggest not only the building of the stadium but a means of getting the money . . . Research has proved to the Councilor from Brighton, he is prepared to state, that there is nothing to prevent the City of Boston from going to its huge White Fund, a flexible benefaction, for the money.

'JOAN OF ARC' NEXT FOR SELZNICK

By Louella O. Parsons

Ingrid Bergman

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 3 What could David Selznick do following "Gone With the Wind" that could even hold a candle to it, has been a question on everyone's lips. In a wire straight from the Coast I've just learned that David will star Ingrid Bergman in "Joan of Arc" as his next big picture which is certainly sensational news, if you ask me. Super showman that he is, Selznick is evidently aware that from now on startling and sensational pictures are expected of him and he's set to give the public and the critics all they bargain for.

Miss Bergman, now in Stockholm, has already been informed by cable of her assignment and has replied that she's prepared to leave Lisbon, on the Atlantic Clipper the last of the month. I was interested to hear that no particular dramatic version of "Joan of Arc" will be used including the former screen hit made years ago by Geraldine Farrar or the famous Katharine Cornell stage show. The Selznick-Bergman picture will draw on authentic data from all sources. For a long time David has wanted to make "Joan of Arc" and he feels he has the perfect star in the fascinating Bergman.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

RAIN POURED DOWN. Huge drops spattered against the windows of my cottage with untiring fury. I was alone. I had rented this cottage deep in the woods to seclude myself and finish writing a novel I had started several months ago.

I was so absorbed in my work that I was indifferent to the monotonous drumming of rain on the roof. Indeed, I was so wrapped in the novel that I failed to hear the door open and to observe the entrance of a young woman.

WHEN I did look up she had made her entrance, and the door was closed behind her. Somehow, I could have sworn that the door had been locked, but I attached no importance to the matter in view of the fact that my young, lovely visitor was drenched and shivering, clad only in a thin dress which clung to her desperately.

"Won't you stand near the fire?" I invited. "I'll get you some warm clothes. Who are you, child?"

"I'm Nellie Matthews," she sighed. "I used to live here. I hope you don't mind."

I was on the verge of assuring her that she was welcome when suddenly she said:

"I must go—they're calling me." And she vanished.

IMMEDIATELY, a rap came at the door. I admitted an elderly gent, with pale, wan features and a serious expression.

"I came to tell you," he explained, "that if the ghost of a girl appears here don't be alarmed."

With a frown of bewilderment, I said: "What do you mean?"

"Come with me," he directed.

I followed him outside to a small patch of pine trees about 50 yards to the rear of the cottage. He pointed to two grave-stones. On one was the name "Nellie Matthews," on the other "Jess Hope."

"Oh, I see," I muttered. "I'm much obliged, Mr.—Mr.—"

"Jess Hope," he said.

And he vanished.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

IF YOU KNOW cow country you've seen the cattle coming down to the salt lick. Over the hills they come, sagging along in single file, moving slowly beneath that vast sun-bleached sky, over the sparse, scorched grass, but never for a moment forgetting the thing they're after.

THEY'RE AFTER SALT. That grass for all its scorched dryness, is succulent. Those hills, in spite of their grim immensity, afford friendly bedding. And the winds are kind and the trickle of water in the creek is enough for the most exacting cow.

BUT, however, soft the bed or green the grass or sweet the water, cows need salt. So somewhere in the hills their owner dumps a great salt chunk and when need drives the herd they come sagging over the mesas and the plains to lay their tongues against its saving bitterness.

Men are like that, too. The bodies of men need salt.

Men have given hope and honor to get salt for their bodies. Men have traded jewels and fought wars because of that tingling madness in their flesh. They might have had other foods in abundance. Sweet, soft food, juicy meal, spley savories, but without salt all that food lost its savor.

MEN'S SPIRITS NEED SALT TOO. A ROUGH CHUNK OF EXPERIENCE TO WHICH THEY MUST RETURN FROM TIME TO TIME.

Something primitive, compelling, that would cut through the taste of soft, salt, spicy living.

A SALT LICK—Sorrow is a salt lick—hardship is a salt lick—humiliation is a salt lick—competition and criticism are salt licks—

So do not try to eliminate these things from your life. Do not try to avoid them. Face them, rather, and be glad for them. Go out and seek them if they do not fall naturally in your lot.

If you have not tasted sorrow, go out and help bear the sorrow of others. If you have no hardship, accumulate some. If you have never been humiliated, take a good look at yourself and get that way. If you have no competition or criticism, court them.

LIFE WITHOUT SALT LOSES ITS SAVOR. BEWARE OF A LIFE THAT HASN'T A SALT LICK CACHED SOMEWHERE IN ITS HILLS.

You Can Be Beautiful

Champagne for Your Lips

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S DOUBTFUL that you'll be intoxicated . . . actually . . . though there is real champagne in an exciting new lipstick . . . but it is certain that you'll have an intoxicating effect on others . . . because the colors are so breathtakingly lovely, and the taste and scent of wine, fresh as the bouquet from a new-opened bottle will remain . . .

When we come across a lipstick that has the marvelous, indelible qualities of these . . . the shining smooth texture . . . and the great range of new colors . . . we consider that quite enough to deserve a real rave. But when, in addition, it is flavored and scented so enchantingly, it requires top billing as the discovery of the season.

As perhaps it should be, the "champagne" lipstick is the most stunning, unusual color of the lot. It's the sort that take a bit of daring to wear . . . that is, if you use a lot of it. If you use a little bit, then fix that with a bit of tissue to take off the excess, it is a low-pitched, wine-red tone. When you use a great deal, it is marvellously rich, deep and dark. It makes your skin a pale glimmer, and your eyes seem to look mysteriously large and glowing above it.

Cordials, peach and others, vary the color range. Just plain "cordial" is a regal, magnificent red. "Fiesta" wine is a vivid flame red, with haunting yellow tones. "Bitter-sweet" has a grape tone. There are many others, among which you'll find one you'll adore . . . and it's kiasproof!

If you'd like to learn all about these wine-flavored lipsticks, phone Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, weekdays until 5:30, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Love

And Marriage Young Girl In Love?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Please give me a little advice. I am 21 and at present correspond with a girl of 20, who lives in a nearby city. I've never really had a date with her, but am in love with her. She writes the nicest, friendliest letters.

And I know another girl who is only 17 and says she's crazy about me, and she says it in such a way that I can't help but believe her. Maybe she's the one I care for. She tells me she doesn't want anyone but me. It can't be that she knows I have a substantial sum of money put away in the bank, and this is the reason for her love for me. You see, Miss Fairfax, I hope to marry some day, and I'm saving for that time.

Should I go with this 17-year-old until she finds out that I'm not the only man in this world, or do you think she's too young for me? Perhaps we may find that we love each other.

MICHAEL.

I don't believe a man can be seriously in love with two girls at the same time. But it's quite probable that he may be emotionally thrilled by two or more.

You've asked for my advice—here goes. It seems to me the girl who writes the friendly letters is a better prospect than the 17-year-old who tells you she's crazy about you.

I acquit the latter, however, of knowing about the bank account. I hope you'll let it grow even more substantial before you decide to marry.

Informal Wedding Procedure

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

I am to be married next month and I would like to ask you a few questions. It is going to be an informal house wedding. The reception is to be held at a hotel. The wedding is to be at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

- 1—Do the bride and the bridesmaids wear gloves?
- 2—What position does the bridal party take at the ceremony?
- 3—What position does the bridal party take at the table, and where do the parents, minister and his wife sit?
- 4—Do my parents send out written invitations or do they have them printed?
- 5—Does the bride respond to the toast?
- 6—At an informal house wedding the bride and her attendants would not wear gloves.
- 7—At the right of the ceremony place stand the groom and his best man. At the left stand the bride and her attendants, the attendants at the bride's left. During the ceremony the bride stands at the left of the groom.
- 8—The bride and groom sit side by side at the bridal table, the bride at the groom's right. At the bride's right is the best man, and at the groom's left is the maid of honor. At the right of the bride's mother, who is the hostess, sits the groom's father, who is the man guest of honor, and at the bride's mother's left sits the minister. At the right of the bride's father, who

'Protective Foods' in Diet

By MARTHA LEE

Every wise homemaker strives to include plenty of "protective foods" in her family's daily diet. They're the foods rich in vitamins and minerals that promote good health and keep you feeling shipshape.

Your old friends, the winter vegetables, are in the protective class. Three of them, turnips, carrots and beets are rich in vitamin B2 or "G" as it's sometimes called. This vitamin is essential to growth, and to full vitality in the prime of life.

... Serve these vegetables in new and interesting ways, and watch how your family eats down what's good for them.

TURNIP CUPS

6 turnips, pared and cooked whole until tender

1 cup cooked carrots and peas

1 cup milk

1 cup soft bread crumbs

2 tbsps. butter

4 tbsps. grated cheese

1/4 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Salt and pepper

Scoop out turnip centers, chop and mix carrots and peas. Heat milk, add bread crumbs and stir until smooth. Add butter, half the cheese and seasoning. Combine with vegetable mixture and fill turnip cups. Top with remaining cheese. Set in moderate oven, 375 deg. F., until cheese melts. Serves 6.

GLAZED TURNIPS

8 small turnips

3 tbsps. butter

1 cup bouillon

Salt

1 1/2 tsp. sugar

1 blade mace

Wash and peel turnips; cut in large cubes and boil about 3 minutes; drain and add to melted butter in saucepan. Add bouillon, salt, sugar, and mace, and bring to a boil; cover and simmer about 15 minutes, or until turnips are tender. Uncover and cook until sauce is reduced to a glaze. Serves 6.

CARROT DRUMSTICKS

1 cup cooked mashed carrots

2 cups soft bread crumbs

1 egg, well beaten

1 tbsps. minced onion

1 tbsps. chopped pimiento

2 tbsps. celery salt

Salt, pepper

1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs

Mix together carrots, soft crumbs, onion, pimiento and seasoning.

Form into drumstick shapes, dip in dry bread crumbs and brown in deep fat at 375 deg. F. Makes 6 drumsticks.

CARROTS A LA FLORENTINE

Saute 2 dried onions in 2 tablespoons butter 5 minutes. Roll 12

carrots, sliced lengthwise, in 1/4 cup four; add to onions and cook until flour is browned. Add 1 cup bouillon, season with salt and pepper to taste and simmer 30 minutes.

Serves 6.

SCALLOPED BEETS

6 medium-sized beets

2 tbsps. dry bread crumbs

1/4 cup sugar

1 tbsps. l.

1/4 cup orange juice

1 tbsps. lemon juice

1/4 cup buttered bread crumbs

Peel and slice uncooked beets.

Average in alternia layers in casetole with crumbs, sugar and salt. Pour over fruit juices. Uncover, sprinkle with buttered crumbs and brown. Serves 6.

FOLLOW THE ETIQUETTE OF INTRODUCTIONS

Such a little thing—an introduction, but how it shows up the socially inexperienced.

The young man in the picture appears crude to an important acquaintance when he introduces his wife with "Meet Mrs. Smith." A man of breeding and manners wouldn't use such phrases as "meet," "shake hands with," and he'd know that it's correct to introduce a man to a woman. He would say, "Jane, this is Mr. Davis." And to the man, "My wife."

And how awkward she too seems half rising, uncertain whether or not to shake hands. A woman rises only when introduced to a much older woman or man. She shakes hands or not, as she chooses.

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Remedy. It's Fine.

Quick, Comforting Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

This well-known home-mixed medicine costs very little, but it gives delightful, swift-acting relief from coughs due to cold. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Mix a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinet from any drugstore. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Then you make a full pint of really splendid cough remedy and you get about four times as much for your money. It never needs, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, you'll say it is truly wonderful. It has a remarkable action. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinet is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guarana, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Many refused if it doesn't please you in every way.

PRESENT FOR WIFE

A Complete Short Story
Daily on This Page

By MARCIA
LEONARD

AT 11:45 a. m. on Saturday, Dec. 23, Joe Windle, the auditing department's newlywed, wandered over to George Parsons' desk and perched on a corner of it. He looked worried.

"George," he inquired, "what are you giving your wife for Christmas?"

"An umbrella," said George.

"For Christmas?"

"Sure. Why not?"

"Well," Joe hesitated. "An umbrella doesn't seem a very Christmasy sort of thing, if you know what I mean."

"I give my wife an umbrella every Christmas," said George calmly.

"Does she collect them or something?"

"No. She loses them."

"I don't get it."

George leaned back in his chair and smiled complacently.

"The first year Alice and I were married," he explained, "I was in the same spot you're in today. I walked up and down State street for hours, looking in windows. I went into the stores and was trampled by the crowds, ignored by the salesladies and sneered by the housewives. I got nowhere. I couldn't make up my mind, couldn't get up my nerve to buy this or that. Then, two days before Christmas, Alice lost her umbrella. I bought her a new one. She loved it. So I've been buying her umbrellas for Christmas ever since."

"What does she do with them all?"

"Loses them."

"On purpose?"

"I don't think so. She just seems to have a gift for it. She's lost them in trains, street cars, taxis, movies, stores, telephone booths and what not."

"Does she ever get them back?"

"Never. Take this year's model, for instance. Up to last week she still had it. I didn't worry; I knew I could depend on her. Last Sunday she took it to church with her—and that was that!"

"You mean somebody in the church found her umbrella and kept it?" asked Joe, agitated.

"Right. When Alice loses an umbrella it stays in."

AN EXPERIMENT

"What a break!" murmured Joe anxiously.

"And don't I know it! My Christmas shopping problems are solved. An umbrella is the easiest thing in the world to buy. You don't have to worry about size, shape, scent, flavor or make. You can't go far wrong on color or price. I've got so I could buy one in my sleep."

Joe slid off the desk. "I was hoping to get some advice from you, but I guess it's no use. With a set-up like that, what would you know about buying Christmas presents? Some people have all the luck!"

"It's better to be lucky than smart," George's phone rang and he answered it.

"Hello? . . . Oh, hello, dear . . . How you doing? . . . WHAT? . . . How? . . . Well, I'll be . . . Oh, nothing, nothing . . . No. I'm glad . . . That's right . . . Well, good-bye now, I'm kinda busy . . . I'll be seeing you."

Shakily he replaced the receiver and turned a panicky face to Joe.

The Cast of Characters in "A Present for the Wife"

JOE, who hasn't the slightest idea what to buy for his wife for Christmas, appeals to GEORGE, who knows the answer, and, fortified by a few drinks they go on a shopping spree.

"She got it back!" he groaned.

"The umbrella?"

George guised and nodded. "Somebody got religion and put it back in the church. The sexton called her in."

Joe smothered a laugh. "Gee, that's tough," he sympathized.

George reached for his hat and coat.

"Good thing today was payday,"

It took an hour and a veritable parade of models to enable them to make up their minds.

he gasped. "If anybody asks for me, tell 'em I was suddenly taken sick. That," he added, "is no lie."

When George reached the street he discovered that snow was falling.

"I could do with a drink," he decided, and turned into his favorite pub. The bar was crowded, the bartenders were brisk, there was a small Christmas tree on the back bar and holly wreaths on the mirrors. Everyone seemed very cheerful. At first George couldn't understand why, but when he'd had a couple of drinks it seemed perfectly reasonable.

"Say, Jack," he asked the bartender, "what does a man buy his wife for Christmas these days?"

"Stockings," said Jack without hesitation. "A girl can't have too many of 'em. But you have to know the size."

"How true," murmured George. He nursed his drink while he tried in vain to remember Alice's stocking size. Then he looked at his watch. It was 1:45.

Reluctantly he rose and left the cheerful bar. All too soon George found himself on State st. There the sidewalks were crowded to capacity. George edged into the throng and shuffled along with it, drinking in the Christmas air and the Christmas sights.

"This isn't so bad," he decided, just as he let himself be drawn into an eddy of people around the entrance to a large department store. Too late he realized what had happened. He tried to retreat, but people behind him kept pressing forward. He just had time to draw a deep breath before he was pushed into a revolving door. It spun him around and ejected him into a high, bright, warm, fragrant place that hummed with the sound of many voices and tinkled with the music of busy cash registers.

The rushing tide of humanity carried him up against the perfume counter and beached him there.

George found himself looking into the scornful eyes of a salesgirl who had been told she looked like Myrna Loy.

"Can I help you?" she asked doubtfully.

George pulled himself together.

"I want," he said desperately, "some perfume for a blonde girl with blue eyes, five feet three inches tall and 110 pounds in her stocking feet."

The salesgirl, apparently accustomed to dealing with lunatics, nodded. She reached into a show

"Suppose you want ladies' underwear?"

"They got 'em to sell, haven't they?"

"It's easy to talk," sneered Joe. George felt that his honor was impugned. "I'll show you," he declared. "Right now. Finish your drink and come on."

Indignant, he seized Joe's arm and steered him into the store he had just left. Strangely the crowds and noise now left him undisturbed. He spied a tall floorwalker and fought his way toward him.

"We want," announced George in a loud voice, "to see the ladies underwear."

"Third floor," said the floorwalker.

Joe plucked at George's sleeve.

"I could have told you that, you dope," he whispered.

"They can't shoot you for asking, can they? Come on, I think we can squeeze into this elevator. Sure we can. Come on." They did.

Compared with the turbulent main floor, the lingerie section seemed quiet and almost empty.

George caught his train by an eyelash. It was crowded. His fellow passengers were wet, tired and weighed down with bundles, but merry.

"The Christmas spirit is a wonderful institution," he said to himself.

When he reached home, he for once was glad to find that Alice was out. He stole into the bedroom and buried his purchases in a drawer. There also lay the long slim package that held the umbrella he had bought for Alice three days earlier. George sneered at it.

Five minutes later Alice's key clicked in the front door.

"Hello, darling," George hailed her as she came into the living room.

"Hello," she answered without a smile.

George stood up. "Is anything wrong, honey?" he asked anxiously.

"George, I'm so mad I could cry. I lost my umbrella again!"

"Again?"

"Yes, I picked it up at the parish house on my way downtown and now I haven't got it. I must have left it somewhere."

Laughing, George took her in his arms.

"Forget it, sweet stuff," he told her. "Buying umbrellas is the best thing I do."

George strode boldly into the midst of it. Joe slunk along in his wake.

A white-haired woman who resembled a duchess approached them and smiled.

"We want to look at some of this—uh—stuff," said George, moving a hand at a display.

"Would you like to see it modeled?"

"Why not?" hazarded George.

The duchess led them to a private room and left them sitting in overstuffed chairs. They lighted cigarettes and waited.

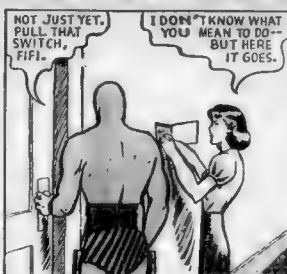

Presently a door opened and a girl wearing hardly any clothes walked into the room. Joe got up hastily.

"Wait a minute!" said George, grabbing his coatails. "This is going to be good."

$135,591 Begging For Lost Owners

HERE'S SPORTS' MOST AMAZING MYSTERY!

Would you suppose that in this traditionally thrifty state, our horse and dog track addicts with winning race stubs would forget to collect their profits? They do! Massachusetts' poodch and dobbin plants have a total of $135,591.40 in uncashed bets, money which has lain unclaimed during five years of racing and which lies in bank vaults waiting for coupon holders to come and get it.

AUSTEN LAKE

The State has made no provision for the disposition of this large sum. It merely is baled up in the banks under the entry "unclaimed ticket account." What will finally become of it nobody knows.

Now and then stragglers mail in old stubs, some of which are a year or more overdue and worth substantial amounts. They ask, please, to have them cashed. The track auditors check through their race files, cussing softly the while, determine whether the stubs tally with the figures of that particular race, and pay off. It's considerable of a nuisance!

And sometimes a claimant has lost his tickets, but the track pays off just the same. Such claims come in the form of a notary's affidavit, stating that Mr. Mokus, the big potato-chip maker, mislaid his stubs on a horse named Gollywobble in the sixth race of July 10, amounting to $35.60.

This time the track auditor swears out loud, checks not only the facts but the character of the claimant. If figures fit—i. e. if there was a surplus on that particular race equal to or more than the claimed sum and if the man has a sound moral reputation, the amount is forwarded.

Why Do They Wait?

THE CURIOUS ASPECT IN THIS IS, WHY do holders of winning tickets delay collecting their lawful profits? How is it possible that so large a wad of fresh cash could be orphaned? For, indeed, proportionate sums are unclaimed at Narragansett and Rockingham.

The answer, perhaps, is (1) accidental loss of tickets, (2) impulsive destruction, (3) sudden illness and a half a hundred other reasons. An elderly gent with the heart flutters buys a horse check, perches on the stands and, as his money animal churns up the stretch, feels his pulse skip. He swoons and is trundled off to the little frame infirmary, where nurses wait for just such emergencies. Time passes! The elderly gent recovers, thankful to be snatched from the jaws of death. Then one day he fiddles through an old vest. Hello! here are a couple of old horse receipts. Wonder if the brute won.

Ignorance is another cause. I know of a "show" bettor, whose horse won and who tore up the ticket under the mistaken notion that it didn't count. I recall another day when a misplaced saddle cloth number confused a host of bettors, who in exasperation tore up their tickets only to hear the amplifiers scream, "Hold onto your stubs folks. Number 8 is the real winner." But it was too late to recover the fragments among the rubbish-draws under foot.

Much of this ownership $135,000 will never be claimed and as the years go on will be swelled by more orphaned money. In time Massachusetts may do as Rhode Island does. At Narragansett the money stays in bank vaults for six years, then passes to the state.

After coming from behind on three occasions, the New York Rangers completely outclassed the Bruins last night at the Boston Garden and when the final whistle blew they held a 6 to 4 decision. The Bruins managed to stay in the ball game until half-way through the second period. Then Bruins whatever chance they might have had to break the Blue Shirts' streak. With Hamill and Hollett off in the first period, the Rangers scored two goals, each of which tied the count.

Then in the first minute of the middle stanza, Portland went off and bang, again the score was tied. After that there was no stopping the visitors, who scored twice more in that period and again in the final chapter.

The Rangers gave one of the greatest exhibitions ever seen here. They were exceptionally fast and played heads up hockey at all times. Their passing was a treat to watch and they had the Bruins going around in circles most of the night.

The Bruins came up with the first tally of the game shortly after half time in the first period. Bill Hollett started the play by flipping the puck forward diagonally to Red Hamill, who was about 15 feet in front of Dave Kerr. Hamill knew that he had to work fast to beat Kerr so instead of trying to dribble and then shoot, he simply batted the puck into the net.

Then Hamill offset his fine offensive play by drawing a penalty. He charged Bryan Hextall from behind after the Ranger had missed an open net. With Hamill in the box, Rangers opened up with their famous razzle dazzle passing attack and Neil Colville tallied on a three-man attack with Art Coulter and Alex Shibueky.

Three minutes later Bill Cowley fed Bill Hollett a pass and, Flash, taking a leaf out of Hamill's book, batted the puck home for the second Boston goal. Bruins were out in front 2 to 1.

Before many of the fans realized that the second period had started Bill Hollett was off for holding and Dutch Hiller quickly scored to tie the game up for the second time.

Then while Jack Crawford was serving a penalty, Milt Schmidt moved the Bruins out in front for the third time on a sensational solo dash, crashing into the back boards after beating Dave Kerr.

About half way through this period, Jack Portland was caught laying the wood on Hextall and off he went, which was the signal for Kilby McDonald to take over.

In less than a minute and a half McDonald, a rookie, scored twice and the Bruins were practically out of the running. Before the end of

EN ROUTE TO BOSTON, Jan. 3—An elegant gesture by Gene Goodreault, Boston College end, today assured all Eagles who played against Clemson, as well as seniors one of the 30 costly wrist watches, who did not see action, of receiving replacements of the Dallas Cotton Bowl football tournament.

J. Curtis Sanford, "Angel" of the Cotton Bowl business allotted 30 of these prizes to B. C. and to Clemson. After counting those who faced the Tigers and the seniors who didn't, B. C. required 31 watches to give awards.

So Goodreault, who won the "Bulger" Lowe award for being New England's outstanding football performer during the season—a wrist watch—provided the solution.

GENE SAVES DAY
Gene told B. C. officials that he already had a watch, and would they please cross him off the list and give it to one of his teammates.

Those presented with watches were Gladchuck, Dubinski, Logue, Ryan, Captain Schwotzer, Kerr, J. Zablski, White, Manso, Yauchoos, Morris, Levantis, Griffin, Kidhardt, Harrison, Lukachuck, Galvani, E. Zablski, Cowbig, Toczylowski, Powers, Lucey, O'Rourke, McCarthy, Jauron, McGowan, Cignetti, Davis, Anaulis and Maznicki.

This matter settled without any thrashing about, the Eagles were gradually coming out of the gloom and forgetting the score—some say it was Clemson 6, B. C. 3—as the train special rumbled north on the last lap of the 400-mile journey.

A stop-over at Washington today during which the 1940 captain may be elected and announced later, was held as the last high light with the Eagles due at the South Station tomorrow evening.

EXPECT NO RECEPTION
They do not expect any glowing reception, being recently disappointed at their failure to beat the Tigers from South Carolina. They may be in for a surprise, because the student and alumni excursions left Dallas before this special with intentions of being at the home depot in large numbers for a welcome.

Clemson's Pullmans were unhinged at Memphis and the Eagles and Tigers shook hearty farewells, Coaches Jess Neely and Frank Leahy spent several hours talking things over and it is certain that B. C. and Clemson have cooked up a grid series, to start in 1941.

Reports were that Neeley is going to Rice, but apparently he'll stick with the S. C. college he's put on the map.

Graduate Manager John Curley expects to find a wire at hisleigh office saying that Texas A. & M. will fill the open Oct 6 date on the schedule for next fall.

Baseball Film In Debut Here

"Touching All Bases," the American League's motion picture, producing highlights of the most important fundamentals of baseball, was shown at the Boston City Club last night, under the auspices of the park department before 600 fans.

Eddie Collins, Tom Connolly, Umpire-in-Chief of the American League, Phil Trosky, Park Commissioner Long, Ted Olson, Jay Wentley, sports commentator; Gene Dautels, Jim Britt, new baseball announcer; and Lou Fonseca, author and director of the motion picture, were introduced by William M. Mullen, director of the Park League.

Joe Cronin, Red Sox pilot, played the lead role in entertaining picture, and was aided very nicely by stars of the league, including Charley Keller, Joe DiMaggio, Rudy York, Lefty Grove, Eddie Collins, Irvie Speaker, Babe Ruth, and many other baseball immortals.

Boston School Sextets At Arena Tomorrow

South Boston High School will make its third start of the season in defense of its hockey title tomorrow afternoon, facing Charlestown as the Boston schoolboy conference swings into its first session of the new year at the Arena.

In the other three games on the program which will get under way at 2:30, Roxbury Memorial takes on Mechanic Arts; Dorchester duels Trade, and Roslindale runs into East Boston.

Southie opened its schedule two weeks back with a 3 to 0 victory over Jamaica Plain and last week sailed into a first place deadlock with a 1-0 triumph over Brighton.

Charlie Furlong, Tom Gill and Larry Boyle, on the first line, have been setting the winning pace for the Steve White outfit and will probably give Johnny Gotsell a lively afternoon in the Charlestown nets.

ARTISANS COMPETENT

The Bunker Hill boys lost their last start while John DiMase, Gene Murphy and Tom Powers showed to fine advantage. This forward wave may carry enough punch to send the Southie sextet reeling from the top spot in the standings.

In the opening game, Roxbury Memorial will have to show improvement to stop Mechanic Arts. The Artisans slipped a 4-0 defeat on Latin school last week while putting on a grand exhibition.

Herb Lang and Al Horech have been standouts on Dutch Holland's offense and will have to be stopped if Memorial hopes to break into the winner's circle.

Trade school's stubborn defenses may prove tough for Dorchester's aces but Bob Cleary, John Foley and Tom Coleman could find the range to keep the Red and Black at the top of the heap. The last start of the Pendergast outfit resulted in a clean cut triumph over Roxbury Memorial.

FIREWORKS DUE

In the final game of the afternoon, fireworks may break loose when Roslindale, boasting a load of speed, clashes with East Boston which opened its campaign with a 3-3 deadlock against Hyde Park.

Charlie Carosella, Ed Finnean and Tom Scott looked like one of the fastest front lines in the ranks in leading Roslindale to a victory over Charlestown. Carosella was especially impressive, passing from his left wing for two scores in this game.

East Boston came from behind twice to tie Hyde Park, while staging a fine fight in its debut and with Paul Russo on the firing line, may cause Coach Fred Murray's boys a lot of headaches.

Cleveland Signs Keystone Pair

CLEVELAND, Jan. 3 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians' young keystone combination of Shortstop Lou Boudreau and Second Baseman Ray Mack is under contract for 1940, Vice-President C. C. Slapnicka announced today.

Recalled from Buffalo of the International League last summer, Boudreau won a regular place in the Tribe's lineup, but Mack was benched after a trial of several weeks.

GOODWINS MOVE

Basketball moves from the Garden into Mechanics Building with a doubleheader carded for Sunday afternoon.

The colorful Goodwins who have captured four victories in a row will attempt to wipe the only blot from their record by meeting the Harlem Colored Yankees in a return clash. The Cantabs and Charlestown Indians, two outstanding State League quintets, will clash in the secondary feature.

The Harlem Yankees edged the Goodwins 43 to 37 in the first game played by the Boston team as a unit.

Since that game the Goodwins have become almost unbeatable.

The Goodwins have won their last two games without the services of Captain Ed "Moose" Krause who has been spending the Christmas holidays at home with his folks in Chicago. Big Ed, however, returned to Worcester yesterday and will be back directing the Goodwins.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

THE BOSTON OLYMPICS hockey club, the brain child of Walter Brown of the Garden, is the hottest of the town's new sports promotions . . . The average crowd at the Olympics' games is between 11,000 and 13,000 . . . The low admission price enables family groups to attend these games.

I dropped into the Garden the other night to see the Olympics play . . . I was impressed by the fine action, and also by the enthusiasm of the big crowd . . . Most of the players on the Olympics are Americans, and can continue right on playing provided the United States keeps out of the war . . . In the event of a long war, most of the players in the National Hockey League would be called to service by the Canadian government, and it might be necessary to suspend professional hockey for the duration of the war.

The Olympics' games will help to develop American hockey players . . . A few more American players like Frankie Brimack in professional hockey would aid the popularity of the game . . . As Americans increase their influence in the council chambers of the National Hockey League, American players and officials will receive more consideration . . . It is natural that the Canadians should still have the upper hand in professional hockey in view of the fact it was originally their pastime.

THE RULES OF THE National Hockey League regulating the splitup of the receipts has proved helpful to the Bruins this season . . . While attendance figures have been off in Montreal and in Detroit, there have been large crowds at most of the local games . . . The Bruins played to capacity gatherings this week against Les Canadiens and the Rangers . . . All this money went to the Bruins under the rule that gives the home club the entire gate receipts . . . When the Bruins go on the road and only play before an average crowd, Art Ross doesn't get any financial headaches . . . He only has to concern himself with the Boston crowds which continue to be large.

The Bruins have a young, powerful club . . . They have had more than their share of injuries this season, but over any period of time they will win a big percentage of their games . . . They are tops in my book to once more win the famous Stanley Cup.

Boston College Added to Football Glory

I HAVE BEEN reading stories in the newspapers stating that it is a sad Boston College football team that is on its way back to Boston after losing to Clemson in a New Year's game by a score of 6 to 3 . . . I cannot see any sensible reason why Frank Leahy and his players should be downcast over their showing against Clemson . . . The Eagles went down fighting, and made a grand showing . . . One break would have given them a touchdown and victory . . . Boston College increased its football prestige by its invasion of the Southwest against Clemson . . . Graduate Manager John Curley will find it easier to arrange a strong schedule for 1940 . . . There is already talk of a game between Boston College and Clemson for Fenway Park . . . It would make a top attraction, and would be certain to draw 25,000 cash customers which would top the mark of the Cotton Bowl tilt.

I believe everybody is satisfied that the football season has come to a close . . . The various bowl games are an anti-climax to a stirring fall football campaign, and would be better if not played . . . They do not help elevate the standing of football, and often have commercial touches that tend to pull down the gridiron sport.

GRADUATES OF THE American-Record amateur boxing tournament continue to step out front in the professional ranks . . . Larry Bolvin of Providence, former 112 pound champion, will headline Sergeant Eddie Mack's Argonne A. A. show at Mechanics Building tomorrow night with Jimmy Gilligan of Buffalo as an opponent in a ten-round go . . . George Salamone of East Boston, another All-America graduate, will oppose Jerry Zullo of Chelsea . . . Last week Salvatore Bartolo, Abe Denner and George Martin, featured on the Argonne Club's bill, also carried All-America diplomas.

The future of professional boxing depends upon youngsters like Bolvin, Bartolo, Denner, Martin and Salamone . . . The All-America tournaments in time will develop many world's champions . . . Joe Louis, greatest of present day fighters, first attracted attention winning amateur ring tournaments.

The Argonne A. A. weekly fistic program, offered at popular prices, will do much to build boxing interest . . . The opening show drew a net house of $2500 which left Sergeant Mack and his fellow directors in a gleeful mood.

Random Shots at Target

PAUL BOWSER arrived back in town today following a trip to Buffalo and New York in regard to his wrestling promotions . . . Bowser will be at the ringside at the Arena tonight when Jimmy Londos and "Bibber" McCoy clash . . . Londos and Ed Don George once drew $40,000 for Bowser at National League Park . . . Londos is still in good physical condition, and has signified his willingness to meet all comers on the mat.

Eddie Quinn, Montreal wrestling promoter, is spending the holidays with his family in Walkham . . . Quinn has done a good job promoting in Canada.

Londos Tackles McCoy in Drive To Regain Title

Jim Londos, former world's heavyweight champion, is in town to clash with Bibber McCoy of Cambridge in a finish bout, best two falls out of three, at a Paul Bowser show at the Arena tonight. "I am in fine condition, and believe I'll win from McCoy," said Londos. "Paul Bowser then can sign me with any wrestler he wishes. I am confident of my ability to dispose of any of the heavyweights."

Londos looked physically fit. He has been wrestling regularly for the past three months.

Londos believes that a victory tonight will open his drive to regain the world's title now held by Steve Casey.

McCoy will have a weight advantage tonight. This is not worrying Londos who usually has to give away weight to his opponents. Bibber is a good wrestler as well as a fiery one, and believes he will pin Londos.

Danno O'Mahony and Marvin Westenberg are to battle in the semifinal.

The balance of the card has Ernest Franz Heffner vs. Jack Marshall, Leo LeFebvre vs. Tony Jordan and George Linehan vs. Dr. Johnny Murphy, the drop-kick specialist from Malden.

Huskies' Quintet Seeks First Win

Still seeking its first court victory. Northeastern's hoopmen will entertain the University of Connecticut at the Huntington Ave. Y. M. C. A. Gym next Saturday night.

The Huskies have dropped four games in a row but hope to get off to a winning start in their first official league clash which will be against the Nutmeggers.

PITT STAR'S LEG BROKEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3 (INS)

X-ray examination today showed that Ken Kish, Pittsburgh quarterback and one of the stars of the East team, broke a small bone in his leg during the East-West game.

YOU CAN'T EAT 'EM—Larry Bolvin, Providence bantam, looks fondly at some of mementos he won when he was competing in Hearst amateur tournaments. Larry's a money-chaser now. He'll meet Irish Jimmy Gilligan at Mechanics Building tomorrow.

IRISH JIM GILLIGAN HERE FOR BOLVIN GO

By RINGSIDE

Red Carr of Buffalo, former manager of ex-light heavyweight champion Jimmy Slattery, arrived in town this morning leading another embryonic champion by the nose.

Carr's new "find" is Irish Jimmy Gilligan, who will travel ten rounds or less with Larry Bolvin in the Argonne A. A. show tomorrow at Mechanics Hall. In a second ten-rounder Jerry Zullo of Chelsea tackles the sharp-punching George Salamone of East Boston.

Carr's protégé claims victories over Joey Archibald and Al Mancini, and Carr says he will sit on the world feather throne just as soon as he can get Archibald into the ring in a title bout.

Tomorrow's winner is slated for a match with the clever Salvatore Bartolo of East Boston, who polished off Abe Denner in the Mechanics feature a week ago.

Like Bartolo, Salamone is definitely headed for the heights in the pro game. Both are graduates of the All-America amateur ranks, and both learned their lessons well.

Despite Zullo's greater experience, this corner believes Salamone will get by him nicely. Zullo, an in-and-out, didn't look any too good in his series of bouts with the veteran K. O. Lasse last winter, and Salamone, despite his youth can elude the verdict.

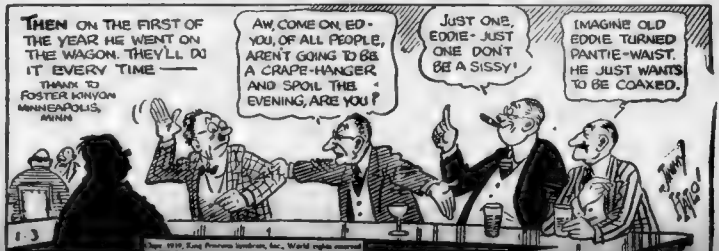

There will be several preliminaries, boosting the total of rounds to 36.

Ski Scribblings

BY "TAP" GOODENOUGH

NOTHING STOPS NEW ENGLAND SKIERS! Despite the fact that skiing conditions for the New Year weekend were reported as generally fair to poor, record crowds stormed every ski spot in the North Country, and every body was happy.

Light snow helped in lots of places as the Ski Boom came in with a "bang!"

Thousands found the best running at Mt. Mansfield in Stowe, Vermont, where there was excellent snow for all. Every available room was taken, some folks being willing to sleep in bathtubs or on coat hangers.

Another crowd jammed the Pico Peak area in Vermont. The skiing here was good, according to Libby Till, Boston slalom racer, who got in about 26 hours of continuous schussing over the weekend.

Both towns were running, and the upper half of Sunset Schuss trail was very fair. . . . Karl Ackert had his ski school in full swing. . . .

At Gilford, N. H., the Winnepesaukee Ski Club's four-event meet was held as scheduled in the Belknap Mountain recreation area, Lebanon Outing Club winning on combined performances. . . . The ski school, under Fred Nachbauer, ran to capacity and the Phelps slope tow was operating. . . .

The tow on the Frontenac slope in Plymouth, N. H., was in use. Many in this region practiced on open slopes. . . .

Although the Eastern slope region had very little cover, many open slopes that were quite skiable were discovered. . . . The ski school, which Hannes Schneider directs, gave over 1100 lessons during the weekend. . . .

The season's first one-day snow trail carried nearly 500 enthusiasts to North Woodstock and Lincoln, N. H. . . . Most of these scurried around to find open slopes, while 100 went to Cannon Mountain nearby. . . . The toboggan tow provided fun at Lincoln. . . .

Trail Tracks:

This writer spent the week-end in Littleton, N. H., in the Franconia Notch region, and enjoyed fair to good skiing. From Saturday through Monday, the Cannon Mountain tramway carried 1600 skiers, and Paul O'Neill, Jr., and his charming wife, informed us that the tram transported more passengers Sunday than it did on the corresponding day last year.

And at that date conditions were much better, so business must be improving as shown by the increased winter travel. The skiing peak may reach a new high!

Every hotel and inn throughout this inviting area was packed to the attic, and all places reported a record turnover. If there is skiing anywhere, there is skiing in this section. . . .

Last Saturday night the largest dance in the history of the Franconia Ski Club took place in the town hall, with over 400 in attendance. . . . Funds raised through this annual ball are used in trail maintenance and for other general improvements to aid skiers. . . .

The dance was a most colorful affair with ski outfits of all hues in evidence. Ski boots were banned, but what a relief to frolic about in comfort without having to struggle along in stiff shirts!

Half the joy of skiing is found in such congenial gettogethers. Wherever skiers gather, it seems, there exists an understanding and comradeship that is rarely so common in other sports. . . . "A way of living" . . .

Another such dance has been arranged for Saturday evening the 13th of January in honor of the contestants participating in the Ski Club's giant slalom and langlauf meet which will be held on Cannon Mountain Jan. 13-14th. . . .

This skier managed to cover a lot of territory over the holiday. Sunday morn, came the dawn, we journeyed to Cannon Mountain and ascended on the train. . . .

The ensuing run down the Tram Ravine trail and over onto the Cannon trail was a bit rough and rocky, but it was fun! Controlled skiing was certainly in order. . . . One good snow fall is all that's needed. . . .

Arriving at the base, we skied part of the way across country, finally reaching Dickinson's tow on Sugar Hill in Lisbon. . . . Conditions were fairly good here, with several hundred skiers dotting the hills. . . . Sig Buchmayr was seen working out. . . .

Good practice was to be had on Monday on the 1900-foot Mt. Eustice tow in Littleton. . . . This slope is very rugged and exciting. . . . 'Twas best to practice control, however, as several Whiz Bums finally found out, after spilling when trying bumpy schussing. . . .

Let's all get our ski legs. Then we can stop without using another skier for a brake, by running into him!

Ski Sportraits:

While skiing Sunday, we had the pleasure of meeting all the instructors in the Franconia Ski School, a very talented group. . . .

First was "DEBBIE" BANKART. One of the only three certified women ski instructors in the East. . . . This attractive girl comes from Lynn, and is 21 years old. . . .

Her dad, Larry Bankart is the former Dartmouth All-American end. . . .

Debbie first learned to ski at the school in which she is now teaching under the expert guidance of

DEBORAH BANKART
Instructor at Franconia

Roland Peabody in 1935. . . .

She was educated in Switzerland and has attended various ski schools in Europe; at Wengen, Switzerland; Chamonix, France, and Kitzbuhel, Austria. . . . This ski girl puts her lessons across very deftly, aiding the pupil. . . .

She does not receive any compensation for teaching because she desires to retain her amateur standing, so she can race in several meets during the season. . . . Lots of luck, Debbie!

PETER GABRIEL, head instructor of this school, hails from Sils near St. Moritz in Switzerland. . . . He taught at St. Moritz for 12 years and was a ski instructor in the Swiss army. . . . Won skiing championships in Switzerland in langlauf and jumping. . . . He holds a first class mountain guide's license, and in 1937 and '38, he was in two mountaineering expeditions to Alaska. . . . In 1939 he climbed the Canadian Rockies. . . . Royal Little of Providence brought Peter to this country. . . . He is very modest and unassuming. . . . Here is a master of the art of trail running!

Next comes FLETCHER (CURLEY) BROWN. . . . His home is in Portland, Maine, and he graduated from Williams where he was Captain of the ski team in 1938. . . . "Curley" attended the French National Ski School. . . . He has a pleasing personality and is very popular as a teacher. . . .

ALEC BEHR, another instructor, was a member of the ski team at Dartmouth. . . . He taught skiing at Springfield, Mass., and also at the Eastern Slopes school for two years. . . . A real expert!

Spain Hurt; May Miss Tilts With Rapides

The league leading Boston Olympics may be without Frankie Spain when they engage the Lachine Rapides at the Garden Friday and Saturday nights.

The crack center from Dartmouth injured his right shoulder in the Shawinigan Falls series last weekend and reports he has been unable to sleep since with the pain.

Should Spain be missing, Jack Harris will take over his post in the second line.

SKI SHOTS

Roland Peabody at the Cannon Mountain Tramway has concocted a new non-alcoholic drink called "Cannon Mountain Ski Water". . . . This liquid peeps up skiers when they are tired and thirsty. . . . It is pink in color and sells for five cents a glass. . . . This same drink is quite the craze at European ski centers. . . . Try it!

BETTY WOOLSEY, famous U. S. Olympic Girls Ski Team racer, made three fast runs on the Cannon trail Saturday. . . . She said it was lots of fun!

NEW ROLE FOR LOU

Passing the Puck

By BILL CRIMES

Although they were not as impressive as usual, the Bruins didn't deserve the razzing the fans gave them last night at the Garden. . . The Rangers were really on the loose last evening. . . And when they are so disposed, they're unbeatable. . .

The gentlemen in the second balcony reverted to type, with their "We want Shore" . . . All the Eddie Shore fans could place on the Boston defense couldn't have stopped Rangers last evening. . . The hockey fans are the most tickle of sport followers. . . They are great winners but moan loudly when their favorites take it on the chin. . . It would be well for them to realize that the current Rangers are as good as, if not better than, any club that ever played in the N. H. L. . . .

That is a broad assertion but in the opinion of this writer it is a true one. . . It would be just too bad for the N. H. L. race if Rangers opened up in every game as they did last night. . . They'd be so far out in front by this time that there would be no catching them. . .

Manager Art Ross refused to allow any Bruins to work out today. . . He ordered practice sessions for tomorrow and Thursday but with the exception of Mel Hill, the Bruins laid off today. . . It was very apparent last night that the Bruins are starting to wilt under the strain. . . They have been short-handed practically all season and many of them have been doubling in brass. . .

Ross wants his charges at top form when they meet the Maple Leafs one week from tomorrow night in Toronto. . . The Rosemen have two more home games before going to the Queen City. . . Americans on Sunday and the Red Wings next Tuesday. . .

Lynn Patrick received a fractured nose, when he crashed into Bobby Bauer. . . Clint Smith was the recipient of four stitches. . . Drs. Martin Crotty and Thomas Kelly attended the injured Rangers. . . The Ross boys, Art and John, presented Win Green with that nobby white coat, which he wears so proudly during the Bruin games. . . Although they were leading by three goals, the Bruins "iced" the puck many times during the third period. . .

Coach Frankie Boucher, who should know, claims that this is the greatest club that has ever represented Rangers in the N. H. L. . . When Frankie and the Cook brothers, Bun and Bill, were making hockey history in New York they were practically the entire offense. . . They averaged more than 40 minutes in every game. . . A year ago Lester Patrick had two great lines. . . The season Frankie Boucher has three lines, all of which are about of equal ability. . .

The Rangers have now won ten and tied five games in their last 15 starts. . . And, in the last five games, they've scored 31 goals. . . Davie Kerr is the cream of the goal minders up to this stage of the race. . . He has been sensational all season according to Lester Patrick. . . After the game, the Silver Fox was in fine form. . . "Davie had a bad night. The Bruins beat him for four goals," declared Lester. . . They'd have beaten Lester's club by a dozen goals but for Mr. Kerr. . .

Some practical joker lowered the fire escape between the Garden and the Exposition building after the game and the Union Freight Co. train plowed into it and down it came. . . The Rangers have now beaten the Bruins three times and have held them to one tie. . .

From Saturday through last night, more than 53,000 fans watched hockey games at the Garden. . . The Olympics drew about 22,000 Saturday and Monday and the Bruins played to more than 31,000. . . The Olympics have weathered ten Provincial League games without a defeat. . .

AUSTEN LAKE

foul line at 300 feet and bends around to increase the homerun area. There won't be any 85-cent seats here next summer—just the $1.65 boxes, $1.10 grandstands and 55-cent bleachers.

Nor is that all! A chummy bull pen is being built before the right field wall, shortening the home run range by 20 feet—though actually it will be much less. Because the fence will be shoulder high instead of 10 feet, giving an easier clearance.

There is a two-fold purpose in these alterations which are nicking the Yawkey bank roll for about $100,000. (1) To increase the grandstand capacity and wipe out the "pavilion," and (2) to shorten the driving distance for angular, adolescent Ted Williams. There's money in both purposes.

Ted should double his home-run output next year and become more than ever the popular darling of the town. For he hit 14 of the 28 homers bunted into that right field region last year and, numbered times, arched high drives that flirted with the barriers but were caught a whisker inside the field for harmless pop flies. Next year these "flirters" will be in the bull pen.

Aid to Club Entertainment

HERE'S A BOON TO CLUB ENTERTAINMENT committees, which may be stuck for a feature act. The American League's latest baseball film, previewed at the City Club last night with Lynn's Bump Hadley as the lecturer, is available without charge to all clubs, schools and organizations. All you have to do is write an application to the Red Sox office, 24 Jersey st., giving two acceptable dates and hoping Hadley, in the pay of the League, goes free gratis and for nothing with the film. He provides projector, sound equipment and screen. The only cost to the applicant is the wage of the union operator. The only benefit derived by the Red Sox is goodwill and potential customers. It's a pleasant piece of propaganda.

Rangers Slam Bruins, 6 to 4

the period Ott Heller scored and then in the final frame, Hextall came up with a tally and Rangers led down, icing the puck time and again, much to the disapproval of the fans.

With about nine minutes to play, Dit Clapper scored on a pass from Woody Dumart, ending the goal-getting for the night.

Pic Juniors Open 'Hockey Week'

The busiest week of the winter in college and amateur hockey circles opens tonight at the Garden, where the Junior Olympics clash with the 97 Club.

Tomorrow night Boston College faces a favored McGill outfit at the Garden; Friday night Harvard will engage McGill at the Arena, while the Senior Olympics clash with the Lachine Rapides at the Garden, and Saturday night the O's will have the field to themselves in their second contest with the Canadians.

Tonight's is a return battle for the Junior O's. Until they were sunk recently by the same 97 Club, 7-5, they had been unbeaten.

ONCE IN A HUNDRED YEARS

Historic

Eddie Kilpatrick, first general court officer in charge of the State Senate, helps make history as he takes his ease today in the Senate counsel's chair... the first time in 100 years that the Senate wasn't in session on this day—the first Wednesday in January. Behind Eddie is the rostrum and the Senate president's chair.
